Matthews Name Second on Ballot

Because he was convinced that the paper ballot originally slated for use in the Ulster County Republican Primary next Tuesday was "illegal, unfair and confusing," Kingston Attorney S. James Matthews took his cause to the courts.

As a result, Matthews, Republican candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, succeeded in winning second position on the ballot, which will now have to be reprinted before Tuesday's voting. On the old ballot, now being destroyed on court order, his name appeared fourth.

The new placement of his name in a higher position came as the result of a drawing by lot Friday afternoon at the office of the Secretary of State, Albany, to fix the position of the candidates in the Ulster-Dutchess County areas. Ballot positions for delegate now read as follows: H. Clark Bell, S. James Matthews, R. Watson Pomeroy and Louis Francello.

Earlier in the month, Matthews filed a petition in the Supreme Court requesting a change in the form and contents of the official ballot to be used in the June 28 Primary for the office of convention delegate. His petition was dismissed by a decision of Justice William Deckelman.

Did Not Appeal

The decision worked to good advantage. Although Matthews did not take an appeal from the Deckelman ruling, the matter became academic following the decision of the Court of Appeals in the Erie County action, and the Secretary of State then notified all candidates of the impending drawing by lot.

A show cause order, secured by Matthews, to compel the reshaping of the primary ballot had been ruled defective because Matthews, who entered the contest after Senator R. Watson Pomeroy of Wassaic, H. Clark Bell of Woodstock and Louis P. Francello of Saugerties had been regularly endorsed as delegate candidates, had not served his Republican opponents with papers advising them of what he was attempting to do. Matthews proceeded to do so; notified the three and served them with legal papers which led to the appearance of all four before Justice Deckelman in Supreme Court in Monticello on June 14.

Justice Deckelman, in dismissing the petition as being without merit, said: "the Secretary of State has complied with the provisions of Section 104 of the Election Law which is applicable under the facts in this proceeding." His decision paved the way for the Board of Elections to proceed with the printing of primary ballots which would list Pomeroy, Bell and Francello as a slate; put a blank line below them numbered 4 for Matthews.

Satellite Launched By Russia

Report DeGaulle At Space Center

NOVOSIBIRSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) —The Soviet Union launched an unmanned earth satellite today at a time when French President Charles de Gaulle was reported visiting the main Soviet space launching center.

Indications were that De Gaulle watched the launching but there was no immediate confirmation.

Several hours earlier Tass reported De Gaulle was on his way to the space center en route to Leningrad from Novosibirsk.

Informed sources had reported earlier that the visit would take place, making De Gaulle the first foreign leader known to have seen the normally inaccessible space center. The site is about 1,200 miles southeast of Moscow in central Asia.

Baikonur lies in the deserts of the Soviet central Asian region of Kazakhstan.

From there, De Gaulle was to fly 1,550 miles northwest to Leningrad, the next scheduled stop

PPR in City, County Could Cost $150,000

The cost of setting up Permanent Personal Registration in Ulster County and the City of Kingston may cost an estimated $150,000 before the system is completed and ready for the 1967 November election.

That figure is based on a study already made and by comparison with other counties which have already set up a PPR plan.

It is estimated that some $35,000 to $40,000 will be needed for the program this year and the Board of Supervisor was warned Thursday night by the Board of Elections to consider making $40,000 available by September. It is estimated that an additional $110,000 appropriation will be necessary next year to complete the program. Much of this money will be required by the Board of Elections for supplies, materials in setting up the program and for additional compensation required for the PPR program.

It is mandatory that election districts with 900 registered voters be divided and an additional voting district set up. The number of election districts will be increased in the county from the present 83 to 103 and in the City of Kingston, sixteen additional election districts will be necessary.

More Voting Machines

In addition to the county cost of setting up the PPR program, many towns will have to acquire additional voting machines. The cost of operation of the program will be increased annually by payment of additional inspectors of election in the newly formed election districts throughout the county and city.

Report on Girl After Surgery: 'Out of Danger'

Diane Marie Rappleyea, the 11-year-old girl who underwent open heart surgery Thursday in Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y. was reportedly "out of danger" and recovering smoothly.

The 36-hour critical period following the six-hour operation ended this morning when the youth awoke to eat a hearty breakfast. Hospital authorities described her reactions as "alert."

Diane, the daughter of Mrs. Marie Rappleyea of 144 Hurley Avenue and the late Harry Rappleyea entered the hospital on Tuesday to prepare for an operation to correct defects in her heart.

During surgery physicians filled a hole discovered between the ventricules and removed muscle to correct an obstruction of the pulmonary artery. Surgery began 7:30 a. m. Wednesday and lasted until 1:30 p. m. that day.

Previously, the girl has had three spinal fusions and was in a plaster body cast for two years to aid in correction of a spine curvature. She is now wearing a body brace and will continue to do so indefinitely.

Meredith Resumes Fear March

Begins Walking Toward Tougaloo

By DON MCLEOD

TOUGALOO, Miss. (AP) — James H. Meredith, celebrating his 33rd birthday, today resumed his journey to end fear 159 miles down U.S. 51 from the point where he was ambushed.

The slender Negro, disappointed because the column of marchers who took over his trek did not await his arrival in Canton Friday started walking with a few friends from the Courthouse at Canton toward Tougaloo, where the procession moved to Friday.

"The whole damn thing smells to me," Meredith muttered Friday night after arriving in Canton—16 miles north of this college community on the outskirts of Jackson, Mississippi's capital city.

Meredith drove to Tougaloo Friday night after ignoring a rally in Canton where he was to receive a hero's welcome.

Four Arrested In Thruway Case

Four young Mount Marion men, arrested for creating a disturbance at the Hot Shoppes restaurant on the Thruway near Ruby, were placed on six months' probation when they admitted disorderly conduct charges at their appearance before Peace Justice Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster.

They were Louis Hartrum Jr., 20, and Gilbert Hartrum, 19, both of Plattekill Drive, and Allan Dreschsler, 17, and Brian Curley, 17, both of Mount Marion Park.

Justice Stedge ordered that the probation provides that the four do not enter the Malden or Ulster service areas of the superhighway during the probationary period, and that they must be in their homes by no later than midnight each night.

State police of the Troop T detil told The Freeman that the four young men became disorderly and were abusive to waitresses and customers at the Hot Shoppes restaurant.

Sgt. Henry Ganss and Troopers Joseph Stinton and Edward Zeboris of the Thruway detail made the investigation. They warned that similar violators will be prosecuted.

Warsaw Primate Given Ovation, Violence Erupts

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A tense confrontation between Polish police and at least 1,000 followers of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski teetered on the brink of violence Friday night.

Shouting demonstrators, most of them young, defiantly shook their fists and refused to let 20 motorcycle policemen clear the streets in front of the cardinal's palace.

During the 10-minute confrontation the crowd chanted "Primas! Pri-mas!" (primate) and pressed toward the motorcyclists, who gunned their motors.

Trying to avoid inciting the crowd, the police attempted briefly to hold their ground, then turned around and roared off to the next block. They conferred with a traffic squad captain, then left the area amid derisive whistles from onlookers.

The demonstrators were part of a clapping and shouting crowd of more than 10,000 Roman Catholics who had followed Cardinal Wyszynski and Polish bishops from St. John's Cathedral, about four blocks away.

Fervant Ovation

The crowd gave the primate the most fervent ovation in 10 weeks of Christian millennium celebrations. Streets in the capital echoed with thunderous chants.

The ovation apparently came as a reaction against several hecklers who had whistled and shouted "Bishops stay out of politics!" during a procession to St. John's Cathedral.

Cardinal Wyszynski turned and blessed the few hecklers in the crowd of nearly 50,000 who

B52s Pound Red Supply Lines

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Giant B52 bombers pounded enemy supply areas in the central highlands today as U.S. troops continued two separate, large-scale operations against Communist forces.

Elements of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division clashed with North Vietnamese army regulars in the highlands near the Cambodian border for the third straight day and reported killing 53. This brought the Communist toll to 90 for the past three days.

About 800 men are taking part in the action begun on May 10 and known as Operation Paul Revere.

Meanwhile, the U.S. 1st Cavalry (Airmobile), Division's Operation Nathan Hale went into its sixth day in an area about 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

Katrine Teenager 19th Area Fatality

By CHARLES M. McCARTHY
Freeman Staff Writer

A three-vehicle mishap that claimed the life of a teenage driver, a smashup in which seven persons were injured, and numerous other accidents involving personal injury and arrests marred the pre-weekend scene in the Kingston area.

Dead as the result of the three-vehicle collision Friday afternoon on Route 9W about .3 mile south of Rt. 209 in the Town of Ulster was George D. Merwin, 17, of Leggs Mills Road, Lake Katrine, who was to have graduated Sunday from Kingston High School.

Joel Leon Halwick, 13, of Lake Katrine, a passenger in his car, remained in critical condition today in Kingston Hospital where he was taken for treatment of fractures of the left leg, shoulder and right arm and facial cuts.

Mrs. Joseph (Rose) Di Donna, 62, of Kingston RD 1, a second driver involved in the mishap, was reported in satisfactory condition in Benedictine Hospital where she was treated for shock.

Coroner's Verdict

Coroner Wiliam S. Keyser gave a verdict of accidental death due to a basal fracture of the skull in the case of Merwin. It was the county's 19th traffic fatality of the year.

State Police at the Lake Katrine substation said that Merwin was driving a 1964 model convertible which struck the Di-Donna car while the latter was stopped to make a left turn. They said that the Merwin vehicle then ran off the side of the road out of control, returned to the highway in a sideways position and collided with a southbound truck operated by Walter Albert Oehler, 32, of Kingston RD 2.

Troopers said that the victim was pinned in the wreckage and that traffic was tied up for some time after the accident? Oehler escaped injury.

It was the second Ulster County traffic fatality in less than a week. Bruce Sheringer, 21, of Olive Bridge, was killed last Saturday when his motorcycle crashed into a board fence on Rt. 213 in the Town of Olive.

Yesterday's fatal was investigated by Troopers Gary Forhsee, David Wachtel and Thomas Crowley and Investigator Fred Grunewald of the State Police, and Constable Norman Caunitz, Town of Ulster.

Seven Hurt

A driver was cited for a traffic violation and seven persons suffered various injuries in a two-car collision about 11:40

Expect Dodd Hearings To Finish on Monday

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Dodd hearings boil toward a climax Monday on a best-seller blend of office intrigue, cloak and dagger assassinations, memory blanks and reports of threatened witnesses.

They will get a touch of togetherness then as Sen. Thomas J. Dodd and his wife join in a his-and-her defense against the charges of misconduct leveled at the Connecticut Democrat.

"I hope it's Monday," murmured the stocky, white-haired senator after a long day Friday capped by his apology for his son's "losing his temper."

Son Jeremy, 27, Dodd explained, could not restrain himself when he suddenly found himself face to face in the Senate cafeteria with his father's former office manager, Michael O'Hare, 30.

Turned Over Documents

O'Hare quit Dodd after joining other employes in removing from Dodd's office documents they turned over to columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson — and which became the basis of the misconduct charges the Senate Ethics Committee is probing.

O'Hare said that before testifying Friday morning he went into the Senate cafeteria and ran into young Dodd who "stepped out and called me back. He told me," O'Hare told newsmen later, "I just want you to know when this thing is all over, I'm going to pursue you to your blankety-blank grave."

After O'Hare reported the incident to the Ethics Committee, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., issued a stern warning — without explaining what had happened — against any intimidation of witnesses who, he said, are "wards of the Senate."

When the hearings resumed after a break for lunch, Dodd turned out a statement saying, "My son, Jeremy, has been upset over the disloyalty which O'Hare has demonstrated toward me and my family. The displeasure he feels for O'Hare caused him to spontaneously voice his anger and disappointment at O'Hare's behavior."

"Jeremy," he added, "has expressed his regret for losing his temper in this way and I express my regret also."

After the young Dodd incident, O'Hare told newsmen about what he considered a threat to intimidate him and his red-haired girl friend, Miss Terry Golden, a former secretary in Dodd's office.

O'Hare said early this month one of Dodd's attorneys, Walter J. Kenny Jr., told him Miss Golden had been investigated and that she was "a good clean-cut girl and it would be a shame to damage her reputation."

Reported to FBI

O'Hare said he considered the remark to be a threat and reported it to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Asked about it, Kenny flatly denied he had made a threat or any suggestion of a threat regarding Miss Golden.

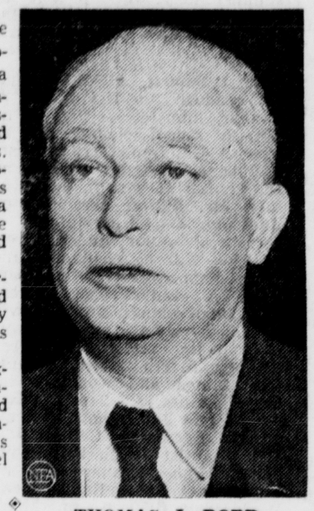

Stennis told newsmen after the hearing he expected Dodd and his wife to testify Monday.

The six-member committee is investigating Dodd's relationship with Julius Klein, a public relations man who is a registered agent for West German interests.

The focus of much of Friday's testimony was on Dodd's trip to Germany in August 1964.

Pearson and Anderson pictured Dodd in a series of columns as having made the Ger-

Auto Safety Bill Passed by House Is Far-Reaching

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted a double-barreled attack at slaughter on the nation's highways — expected to take 50,000 lives this year.

In rapid order Friday, senators:

— Passed 76-0 a far-reaching auto safety bill that would set unprecedented mandatory federal safety standards for carmakers.

— Approved by voice vote a $465-million measure designed to spur the states and cities to make a broader and more effective attack on traffic safety problems. There were no nay votes.

Both bills were sent to the House where committees are now at work on companion measures. House leaders said today there was no doubt these would be acted on favorably later in the session.

Unanimous Vote

The unanimous Senate votes reflected the serious concern at the Capitol over the steadily mounting total of highway deaths and injuries.

Sponsors said they believed the provisions of the two bills taken together should result in an effective attack on the three elements involved in traffic accidents — the car, the driver and the road.

President Johnson hailed the Senate action on the legislation, which went beyond his recommendations in some respects.

He urged the House to follow suit quickly, declaring that "for the first time in our history we

Negro Seeks Primary Win In Senate Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Massachusetts Republicans meeting in convention today are expected to endorse State Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke for the Senate. If elected in November he would be the first Negro senator this century.

Two other statewide conventions and a primary election runoff are being staged on this political Saturday.

In Connecticut, both Democrats and Republicans convened to nominate House candidates. In Minnesota, a Republican convention remained deadlocked over the party's endorsement for governor.

In North Carolina, voters balloted in a runoff election that includes contests in two districts for nominations to the House.

In Massachusetts, Brooke has nominal opposition from J. Alan MacKay, a young Boston attorney, for the nomination to the seat being vacated at the end of the year by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, a Republican.

Running Unopposed

Gov. John A. Volpe, seeking re-election, is unopposed for the convention's endorsement.

Under the Massachusetts system, candidates not receiving endorsement in the party convention can enter the primary election Sept. 13.

The Massachusetts Democratic convention endorsed Edward J. McCormack for governor and former Gov. Endicott Peabody for senator June 10.

Scientists Child Helps Perfect Mumps Vaccine

CHICAGO (AP) — A new vaccine against mumps appears nearly 100 per cent effective, a scientist reported today — and his own 8-year-old daughter had a hand in developing it.

She supplied the strain of virus that is "tamed" or attenuated to produce the live-virus vaccine.

The scientist is Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research, West Point, Pa. The virus is called the Jeryl Lynn strain, after his daughter who came down with mumps three years ago.

In one test involving school-age and younger children, the vaccine was 98 per cent effective in preventing mumps among children exposed to natural virus infection, Dr. Hilleman told the American Therapeutics Society.

Vaccinated youngsters have shown protective antibodies for as long as seven months, he said, raising hopes that one vaccination may confer life long immunity.

Not for General Use

The new vaccine is not yet available for general use. It must undergo broader testing before it can be considered for government license.

Mumps, generally a mild disease, sometimes leads to seri-

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Bob Savage, a Protestant, was stirred to action on his deep seated concern for the plight of the American Indian when he received a plea from the Holy Rosary Indian Mission at Pine Ridge, S.D., for help on promotion and fund raising.

This was for the largest private Indian boarding school in the country, with more than 500 students. Savage, a veteran Omaha, Neb., advertising man, visited the mission and lost his heart to the boys and girls and to the Jesuit fathers in charge. He became so involved that he resigned three years ago as president of his agency so that he could devote all his time to the important account in his life.

His goal, like that of the mission on the Oglala Sioux reservation and the Jesuits and the Franciscan nuns who teach there, is to help give America's first citizens the opportunities long denied them.

National Council Names Overseas Work Official

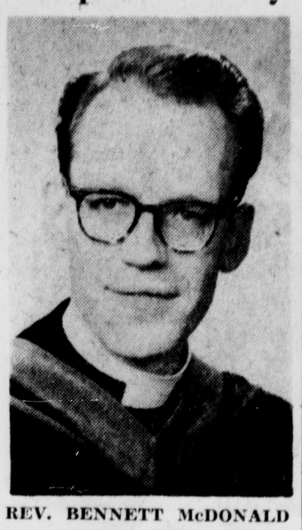

James MacCracken has been named associate secretary of the Division of Overseas Ministries of the National Council of Churches, it was announced today by Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, NCC general secretary.

Mr. MacCracken will also serve as executive director of Church World Service, a department of the Division of Overseas Ministries. In his new post he will work closely with the Rev. Dr. David M. Stowe, associate general secretary of the NCC and head of the Division.

Your Life and Mine

CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

WHAT SOURNESS DOES

Some years ago Eleanor Denny published a quatrain which goes like this:

"I spilled some lemon on my dress,
With faded spots it soon was rife.
And that's what sourness does, I guess—
It takes the color out of life."

Life needs color—there is no question about that. We need the hue of meaning to feed incentive and to inspire hope. Hardly anything is a greater drag on the human spirit than to be in the grip of dullness and bland routine. We need to catch a glimpse of the tints of eternity as they spread themselves out on the landscape that stretches before us. One of the heart's necessities is to be inwardly convinced that what we do keys, however modestly, into the great scheme of things.

It is mightily worth noting that the color of life is up to us. We cannot control what comes to us, or happens to us; but we can determine what it does to us. Edgar Bergen once said on a TV program that his troubles always seemed to come in the big economy-size package. And so ofttimes it seems. But often it happens that those who wear the brightest countenance and shed the most cheer are the very persons who seem to have had more than their share of adversity of one sort or another. You know how Thoreau stated it: "The sick man is often nurse to the sound." And, by the same token, some of the sourest mortals are really most fortunate in that they have escaped the serious ills that descend sometimes upon members of the human family—and the deep and trying problems of poverty or sorrow that troop unwanted into intimate circles.

One of the characters in James M. Barrie's "Window in Thrums" says, "Those who bring sunshine into the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves." The "sunshine bringers" are not necessarily a breed of folks who have been able to maneuver around adversity. They rather are persons who, with God's help, have acquired an inner nobility which refuses to give the sourness an opportunity to steal the color out of life.

Edwin Markham states a mighty truth when he writes: "Only the soul that knows the mighty grief can know the mighty rapture. Sorrows come to stretch out spaces in the heart for joy."

AME Ministers Purchase Camp

The Rev. Vernon A. Douglas, pastor of Franklin Street AME Zion Church, of Kingston, is one of the 50 ministers and laymen who have purchased a camp in the southern Catskills, and named it in honor of Mrs. M. Ardelle Shaw, wife of the Rt. Rev. Herbert Bell Shaw, presiding bishop of our First Episcopal District of which the New York Conference is a part. The Rev. J. H. French, pastor of St. John AME Zion Church, Middletown, is camp manager.

Plans for the use of the site and its facilities, open not only to members and friends of the AME Zion Church, but also to anyone looking for a suitable, quiet place to rest and relax, are already underway. Efforts are also being made to contact social agencies offering the camp's advantages for the children of the underprivileged areas of New York City and its environs.

Is Near Middletown

The camp, now known as Green Pastures — M. Ardelle Shaw Memorial Camp — AME Zion Church, is located at Burlingham, 75 miles northwest of New York City and 15 miles from Middletown. The over-all site includes 72 and a half acres, much of it in timberland. The cleared area near the permanent buildings has been made into well-kept lawns.

There are 18 buildings, some with well-tended foundations plantings. Of these a large three story house will serve as the administrative center and the casino with two large fully equipped kitchens and a walk-in cold storage room, and a dinning hall. Since those buildings and a number of cabins are steam heated, limited camping facilities will be afforded for hunting and winter sports.

Episcopal Bishop To Have Audience With Pope Paul

The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Episcopal Bishop of New York, will have a private audience with Pope Paul while vacationing in Rome June 28 to July 5.

Although no specific topic of discussion has been announced, it is thought likely that the ecumenical movement will figure prominently in the conversation.

While in Rome, Bishop Donegan also has tentative plans to visit Augustin Cardinal Bea, president of the Vatican Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity; Father Pedro Arrupe, Jesuit Father General; Bishop Francis F. Reh, rector of the North American College in Rome; and Father Roderick McKenzie, SJ, of the Pontifical Biblical Institute.

The Bishop's audience with Pope Paul was arranged by Francis Cardinal Spellman through Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, Papal Secretary of State.

Bishop Donegan will arrive in Rome after spending time with the British Royal Family in Scotland. Accompanying him will be the Rev. Edward N. West, canon of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and Harold D. Mock, public relations director. They will also be received by the Pope, as will other Episcopal clergy in Rome at the time.

Esopus Seminary Is Admitted to National Group

In a precedent-shattering gesture of "Ecumenism", the American Association of Theological Schools (AATS) welcomed to its membership this month a small group of Roman Catholic Seminaries, among them that of the Redemptorists at Esopus.

The historic ocasion was the 25th biennial meeting of the ATTS, held June 8-10 in Alexandria, Va., when spokesmen for some 100 member-divinity schools assembled at the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, and by a two-thirds vote elected the following Catholic institutions to Associate Membership: Aquinas Institute of River Forest, Ill., conducted by the Dominicans; the two Jesuit Theologates of Woodstock, Md., and Weston, Mass.; Maryknoll on Hudson, and the Redemptorist seminary of Mount St. Alphonsus at Esopus.

In a report to the assembled membership, Charles L. Taylor, executive director of the ATTS remarked that "The time has ended when we can afford to be apart from each other. Protestant theological education needs an appreciation of the holy, of the costliness of discipleship, of worship and obedience, of the church as the Body of Christ, of the mystery and majesty of our Christian heritage which Catholicism supplies. It is not enough to assert the 'Protestant principle', important as it is, as if it were the only truth in Christendom."

Aldrich Confiedent About Outcome

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 24, 1966—Alexander Aldrich is quietly confident about the successful outcome of his campaign for the Republican Congressional nomination and believes that the pendulum is swinging more strongly toward him also in Dutchess County.

"We have been campaigning to develop the strength of the Republican Team in the 28th District," said Aldrich. "On June 29th we hope that we will have Hamilton Fish, Jr. and his supporters with us in a constructive, effective effort to defeat the Congressman who is not really representing the convictions and beliefs of the people of the 28th District.

"I have been very much encouraged by the response to a District-wide mailing of my brochure along with a letter, asking all enrolled Republicans to give me their two votes," Aldrich explained. He said the letter provided a space at the bottom for enrolled Republicans to volunteer for the Aldrich Campaign Team.

"There has been an unexpectedly large number of these volunteer slips from good people throughout the 28th Congressional District and especially from Dutchess County," Aldrich said, "which leads us to believe we have a great deal more support than we knew about.

Erhard Changes Policy Toward East Germany

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Instructions have gone out to many West German officials to quit being standoffish with their counterparts from East Germany.

West Germany does not officially recognize the existence of the East German Communist state but the facts of life require many kinds of contacts. There are dozens of informal agreements covering everything from alloy steel shipments to zip code numbers, and including what to do about young men who leave illegitimate babies in the East and make off to the West.

West German officials have been under orders to keep strictly to business when dealing with their opposite numbers and not to get into political discussions.

New Instructions

The new instructions, approved by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his Cabinet, point out that the Communists have instructions to talk about politics. West Germans need dodge the subject no longer.

"It is expected," they were told, "that in such discussions you will objectively and firmly represent the free system laid down in the constitutions of the Federal Republic and its member states."

The West Germans are advised to argue emphatically that Germans have not reconciled themselves to the division of the country or to Communist rule in the East.

The new instructions are part of Erhard's policy of seeking contacts of all kinds with the 17 million Germans under Communist rule.

Full-scale reunification of the country looks no closer than it has since World War II.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 25, 1966

AUTO LAW PROGRESS

Congress is making good progress now in moving a federal auto safety bill down the production line. The Senate Commerce Committee has approved a more stringent bil than the administration asked for. This is a major step toward enactment of a law reflecting the national concern about the injury and death on the highways.

Senator Magnuson, chairman of the committee, describes the measure as "a lot tougher" than the administration proposal. It is that, but the bill is not so tough as to be punitive or even hard to comply with. We find ourselves in agreement with Magnuson's assertion that he thinks "the industry will be able to live with this and they'll be happy later on that we passed this bill."

The measure is sensibly concerned, in the main, with requiring that auto design lessen the danger of the so-called "second collision." This is the impact of occupants against the interior of the car after it has collided with another or with some object. It is such impacts that cause the lion's share of injuries and deaths.

The initial set of standards will require only rather a mild advance over present design and engineering. These interim standards, affecting 1968 models, are expected to follow the lead of the General Services Administration as to standards on cars purchased by the government.

Application of these standards to all models will be an improvement. But the real test of what this forthcoming law can do will occur when the temporary standards give over to stiffer requirements based on adequate research. When these greater demands have been met by the industry, we should begin to see a considerable decline in the incidence and seriousness of auto crash injuries.

Premier Ky says the next year "will witness a full success of democracy." The office cynic wonders how Ky's regime could possibly survive that.

PRIZE MEANS GIVING

Just what is it that causes a worker to put forth that extra ounce of effort and attention that can make the difference between a quality product and one that is just so-so?

Industry has been trying to find out for years. Most companies settle on the carrot-and stick approach. But whether the reward for good work is a tiepin or a television set, it is usually based on the belief that employes are motivated only by hopes of personal gain.

One company questioned whether this was the only way and launched a different kind of quality control program which it reports has paid off in startling results.

Since last February, members of 28 work groups at General Electric's Large Generator and Motor Department in Schenectady, N. Y., have been competing vigorously for incentive rewards—but with a reverse twist: Instead of getting, they give.

The prize for meeting or exceeding quality goals is the chance to "'adopt" a deprived child overseas through the Foster Parents Plan, with the company paying the costs. Members of each group cited for the monthly award vote on which of 17 countries will be involved. Length of time for each award is a year, but there is no limit to the number of times each group can win an award—that is, an opportuniy to become foster parents.

Work groups are currently taking care of a 9-year-old Filipino girl, a Korean boy of 11 and a youngster from Ecuador.

To the company's pleasant surprise, they found that not only all levels of management but also entire families of employes became personally and keenly involved. Monthly letters and photos from each sponsored child are duplicated to keep the family of each employe fully informed.

NEW YORK (NEA)

Is God dead? Some modern American theologians say God is no longer meaningful in contemporary society.

Which contemporary society? Even in affluent America—with its scientific marvels and push-button civilization—more than 93 per cent of the people believe in God, according to a recent Gallup poll.

But let the doubting theologians look closer at the Communist world inhabited by more than a billion people to convince themselves that God is not dead.

He is an ever-living presence where men and women hope and pray for freedom and human decency.

"To live on earth and in spirit aspire to heaven—that's the sweet destiny of man," the young Russian poet Solukhin recently wrote.

He was speaking for a growing number of young Russians, born and raised in Lenin's materialist society, who are discovering or rediscovering religion.

After a half century of atheist propaganda the forces of spiritual resistance have not run dry in the Communist world. Despite years of brutal repression and persecution, Christians, Jews, Moslems and Buddhists cling tenaciously to belief in God.

Even the regimented Communist press is forced to admit that there is a growing interest in religion not only among the old but also among the young. This is true not only of Russia but of all Communist countries.

Prof. Milan Mahovec, Czechoslovkia's leading Marxist philosopher, predicted recently that there will be more churchgoers in the Communist countries in the 21st century than there are today.

"The ardent organizers of the decline of religion forget that human beings cannot be manipulated like some machine or handled like sheep," Mahovec said.

"People need a faith to live by and they will cling to it no matter how often it is shown to be irrational by atheist propaganda."

To combat the spiritual revival, Marxist-Lennist leaders have introduced pseudo-religious holidays to replace those on the religious calendar.

Most Communist countries now have "marriage palaces" as a substitute for church weddings.

In Russia they have even introduced a "Cosmonauts' Day" to supplant what was formerly Saints' Day.

Communist leaders clearly are baffled by the failure of their propaganda 50 years after Lenin proclaimed Russia a godless state. "Why has the anti-religious campaign failed?" they ask the press.

One reason was given by the writer Morozov, who is one of Moscow's top "experts" on religion. In his view, belief in God is intrinsically stronger than antheism and therefore all efforts to eradicate religion by brutal force are doomed to failure.

Morozov, like Mahovec, urged a more "liberal" approach to believers. He suggested a halt to the practice of portraying God and Christ in caricature.

He also called for a stop to the mocking of the Scriptures, pointing out that they are not merely "gibberish" but "historical literary milestones."

But even the atheist propagandists who still advocate stern reprisals against believers in God have nothing new to offer to achieve their anti-religious aim.

Many, like the writer Kelt, desperately cry that "something new must be thought of" and something "exciting must be concieved." But what?

For this the Communists have no answer. Perhaps America's death-of-God theologians can give the answer.

Your Dental Health

Powerful Magnets Hold Your False Teeth in Place

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mr. Lawrence:

I am writing you about my husband's jaw. The ridge under his lower plate seems to be shrinking away and he's worried he'll soon have nothing left to hold the plate in. It slips around now at times, and makes it hard for him to chew. Is there anything that can be done about it?

A—"Shrinking away" of jaw is a normal, natural phenomenon and a continuing one, so that the older we get, the less bone we're likely to have left.

While we have teeth, the shrinking process may be halted or at least delayed by: straightening teeth, periodontal treatment, good dentistry, replacing missing teeth, maintaining good mouth cleanliness, and probably by selecting parents and grandparents with perfect teeth and jaws.

But once all teeth are lost, the alveolar bone which is that part of the jawbone that has the special function of supporting teeth, begins to shrink.

Only occasionally though does alveolar bone shrinkage cause any great amount of difficulty. When it does it usually affects stability of lower dentures more than uppers.

Constant rubbing of the denture on the soft tissues, and biting on it when it's not seated properly, results in pain and discomfort and chronic "sore spots."

But don't give up. It's not an irremediable situation. Usually new dentures that are fitted accurately, with teeth in proper occusion, can give relief and comfort and restore normal function.

For those few hopeless cases who can't be fitted by conventional means, there are ways of securing dentures. One of the cleverest involves implanting in the jawbone a small, exceptionally powerful platinum magnet. It is placed in the molar region of the jaw, under the gums and in the bone in a specially prepared "vault" or "crypt."

When bone and gums heal, conventional dentures are fitted and another magnet is placed in the pink base of the lower denture, exactly opposite the one embedded in the jaw. These magnets attract each other and thus hold the lower denture firmly against the tissue.

NO MORE CANDY PILLS

Those who feel that disguising children's aspirin and other pills as candy is dangerous have a powerful new ally. No less a man than Dr. James L. Goddard, who as head of the Food and Drug Administration is in a position to do something about the matter, has spoken out against making drugs for children taste good.

Goddard addressed his stricture to the nation's candy makers, and for good measure he included the candy cigarette in his denunciation: "For the sake of those small, inquisitive, innocent victims of accidental poisoning, let's bid farewell to the candy pill. And for the sake of our growing youth, let's retire the candy cigarette." All right, let's.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Mississippi the civil rights marchers are plodding through has changed significantly on the racial front. But the marchers are having very little to do with it.

Veteran observers in the state say the march probably will produce only a negligble advance in Negro voting registration. They even suggest that, left to themselves, Mississippi Negro leaders like Charles Evers of the NAACP might well produce better gains.

Since the Voting Rights Act of 1965 took effect, some 30,000 additional Negroes have registered in Mississippi — lifting the total to 132,000. By one estimate, the figure may rise to 175,000 by the next statewide election in 1967.

THERE ARE OTHER changes, some measurable in figures, some not. All but a score of Mississippi's 149 school districts have indicated compliance with federal guidelines on school desegregation. According to one observer:

"The situation can be described as good, healthy tokenism . . . Mississippians have undertaken desegregation in some places where people said it would never happen."

Fourteen Negroes attended the University of Mississippi (Ol' Miss) in the 1965-66 year, and 30 are enrolled in summer sessions. It was here, of course, that James Meredith, initiator of the present march, broke the color barrier in 1962.

This autumn, the first significant introduction of Negroes to public school teaching rosters will occur in desegregated schools. It will be a tough hurdle for many white parents to get over.

On the job line, many changes have taken place. In the year since the nondiscriminatory hiring provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act took effect, most manufacturers have employed more Negro help and upgraded what they already had. Business leaders and organizations labored hard to make the changes acceptable.

Industrial plant facilities like restaurants are desegregated. Only occasionally has there been trouble.

Similar hiring changes are noted in retail stores and other establishments. Buses are integrated. So are many public restaurants and hotel facilities. Recently a Negro medical fraternity held a ball in Jackson's best-known hotel. Banquets are common.

YET CHANGES OF THIS sort are being seriously resisted, too.

Though the figures may change some in the final days before Medicare takes effect July 1, only 17 of Mississippi's 132 hospitals had signed up for participation in the program as of this writing.

On the school front, dissatisfied whites are turning more and more to private schools to avoid desegregation. The White Citizens' Councils, badly thinned down after failing to halt the change in public schools, are lending themselves to this move as part of a revival effort.

While Negro registration is up, only 35,000 of 132,000 voted in recent primaries. Democratic party leaders are hearing that Negroes next year may win state legislative seats in as many as four counties, but they are not publicly acknowledging the changing prospect.

SYMBOLIC OF resistance at the political level is the fact that today former Gov. Ross Barnett, stout segregationist, is the overwhelming bet for the 1967 governorship nomination. His candidacy got a whopping boost from the Alabama primary victory of Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, wife of Gov. George Wallace. Barnett talks Wallace for president in 1968.

Business leaders bent on promoting a changing Mississippi image are united in searching desperately for an alternative to Barnett. Right now they have none. But even if he is elected again, the educated guessing is that Mississippi will go on changing.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Saturday, June 11, 1966, turned out to be a beautiful day for the Antique Show at Dietz Stadium. It was a little windy and cool, but the sun was out for those who wanted to keep warm. There was a great display by exhibitors, and everyone with Hudson River, Kingston or Catskill Mountain items had them on display.

Many of the dealers had postal cards, some in boxes under titles, and others, like Otto W. Schaller in packages, and also singles. His prices for assortments were very reasonable, I thought. He has been a postal card collector for some years, and his knowledge of the collector's items, like see through and illuminated cards, some of which sell for several dollars each. He also has buttons and other antique items, and is at 164 Linderman Avenue in Kingston. Sometime back Mr. Schaller bought a package of my cards and then told me the many cards he had already collected. Of course I look for postal cards of Kingston or area around the Hudson, Dayline boats, Kingston Point, Skillyput. Robert Matthews of Kingston was there, another postal card collector, and he showed me two fine cards he received from a friend of his from Connecticut with whom he exchanges cards. Mr. Matthews had one of the Skillyput.

At the Argonaut Book Search of Claryville, I saw a Sylvestor History of Ulster County in excellent condition. They also had Valley of the Hudson in five volumes. I have four of those books, so always look for Book No. 1, These books have biographies of local people and history, very convenient for research. T. Emmett Henderson was there, an old friend of mine from 130 West Main Street, Middletown, who deals in fine, rare, and local history books, and from whom I obtained a set of Ulster County Wills, sometime ago and use them with pleasure.

Another display from Mrs. Marie T. Hrouda of 73 Linderman Avenue of Kingston, had hand decorated tole and tinware, which she did with bronze and oil paints and then varnished. It is done freehand, she told me. She also decorates on order, but will be away all summer, as she teaches in a camp. I did not see Mr. Newgold of the Colony Arts Center of Rock City Road, Woodstock, but I saw his cards around on the seventh year of the Antiques Fair and Sale he has for July 1, 2 and 3, and last year he gave each visitor a handsome picture of the Mary Powell on the Hudson, and this year he promises a different print.

Nellie Elmendorf of 79 O'Neil Street had a nice display and I see she had some Picturesque Ulster and other books also. Portrait sketches were done on the premises. Gateway Industries had a chair-cane demonstration going on, with many questions from the visitors. Half-Way House had a candy and cake sale, all adding to the Country Fair feeling on a beautiful day in June. I was given an illustrated brochure of the guided walking tour of Kingston's Survivors in Stone — twenty 17th and 18th Century buildings still in use in the former stockade area." They start at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at 2 p. m. on Thursdays, June 16, July 21, Aug. 18. The tour is open to anyone, and facts or legends are mentioned about each house in passing. One can drop out along the way, and tour takes about an hour or a little more.

One of the most pleasant things about the outdoor antique show is of course the people you meet, some are old friends, and some are new acquaintances, and immediately one has so much in common because of the particular interest in old crafts, or antiques, or historical items. Conversation and language and common interest makes warm friends immediately at such affairs. It is like a trip in olden days on the Dayliners which stopped at Kingston Point Park.

Goddard's Basic Objective Is Consumer Protection

(Second in a Series)

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In five months as boss of the Food and Drug Administration, Dr. James Goddard has made more speeches than any Cabinet member, more decisions than any of his predecessors in a similar time span, and more enemies than is considered safe.

Amazingly, though, he has not yet begun to put the "Goddard Program" into operation. "We've just been cleaning up the problems we inherited," says an aide.

Goddard's basic objective is optimum consumer protection. Though FDA has some 4,000 employes and an annual budget of some $50 million, it is not large enough to provide perfect consumer protection.

When Goddard took over last January, the agency was about to embark on a five-year program devised by his predecessor, George Larrick. Goddard promptly scratched it. His main objection: "Some of the things scheduled for 1970 should be done now."

Helped by a handful of FDA veterans, he devised a new five-year plan of long-range goals. The veterans were highly impressed with Goddard's grasp of sophisticated management techniques.

"This plan's no pipe dream," says one. "It,s a sound statement of where FDA is going and how it's going to get there Sure, there will still be plenty of problems in 1972 — but at least they won't be the same ones we're facing today."

At first glance, Goddard's first five months have created the impression that he is a wild-eyed crusader shooting from the hip. "Maybe he does fire rapidly," says a high Health, Education and Welfare Department official, "but his gun always seems to be loaded with facts that are hard to dispute."

In this man's opinion, Goddard is using the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act as it was intended.

Basically, he was hired to carry out far-reaching changes aimed at putting FDA in the scientific forefront of medical practice. Eventually, he may have more of a reputation as a scholar than a man of action.

In the drug field, Goddard feels the agency should take calculated risks. A drug promising to be effective against a form of cancer invariably fatal, for example, should be approved regardless of possible toxicity, he believes.

This does not mean that he will accept lax safety standards. "The drug industry is a monopoly," he says. "All good drugs will sell. For heart failure, you have to have digitalis; for pneumonia, you need penicillin. The industry can afford high standards."

A physician himself—the first to head FDA in a generation—he believes the individual doctor is too pressed professionally to run what amounts to a one-man effectiveness review of the numerous drugs available.

Eventually, he envisions a computerized FDA service capable of advising doctors on all aspects of drugs, particularly any recently discovered adverse effects.

As the former head of the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Goddard is well acquainted with the new epidemiological practices for dealing with such food-borne illnesses as salmonellosis, trichinosis and botulism.

FDA has never had the manpower or money to run a continuous inspection of the food industry, though certain segments —shrimp, crab, olive and dry milk industries—have been heavily scrutinized at times.

Goddard has stunned several congressmen with his forthrightness. At a recent hearing where the FDA was being taken to task for its handling of a particular drug, he bluntly replied: "We were wrong."

Perhaps, the biggest question about the man seems to be whether he himself will be around to see the fruition of his long-range plans. Veteran observers are fond of comparing him with Newton Minow, the the former Federal Communications Commission boss who aroused the wrath of the powerful broadcasting industry.

Minow simple could not get Congress to even begin consideration of any of his proposals for revamping the communications industry. At the end, he had little more to do each day than read the newspapers.

Goddard's reaction to this comparison: "Nobody ever dies from a faulty television set. I think the mood of Congress—and of the nation—is in favor of consumer protection. And we have what seems to be adequate legal authority."

He believes that it will take three to five years to carry out his reorganization.

"The day that I have nothing to do but read newspapers," he snorts in disgust, will be my last one on the job."

I decided to put it in the kitchen.

It takes up very little space, looks neat, is most convenient, and is high enough to discurage the "young ones" from taking things off the shelves.

Now I have a dining table pad, very colorful and most inexpensive, too.

Dear Heloise:

I have found a very easy way to roll pie crust dough.

Place a piece of plastic wrap on your counter top and lay your ball of dough on top of it. Cover the dough with another piece of plastic wrap and roll dough with rolling pin.

This eliminates cleaning a counter top and rolling pin.

Peel off top portion of plastic wrap. Using the bottom piece of wrap, flip the crust over onto pie pan and fit properly. Then peel off the remaining piece of wrap. This way your crust will not break. This is an excellent idea when making flaky pastry that so often breaks when handled.

Also, these rolled-out pie crusts can be put in the freezer with the wrap left on them. I take them out of the freezer, let them set for a while to thaw and soften, and then flip 'em into pie pans.

This is quite a timesaver for the working lady.

One of the greatest things about this is that you can make a double or triple recipe and save getting so many bowls dirty.

Instead of rolling it up tight, or putting it in flat in the freezer (which will cause it to crack when it is taken out), roll it—plastic wrap and all—around an empty tube from waxed paper or foil before putting it in the freezer.

Takes little space and the hole in the tube makes the pie crust thaw faster when using later.

Absolutely great!

Finesse Is Not Best Play

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's hand was reported to the Bridge Bulletin of South Africa by H. St. John Ingram of Kent, England. It was played in a team of four match between England and Scotland.

Six hearts was reached at both tables and the king of clubs was opened. Each declarer won in his own hand. The Scottish expert decided quickly that his best chance was a successful diamond finesse. He tried and lost. East led a second club and the hand collapsed.

The English declarer thought things over for five minutes. The time and thought proved well worthwhile because he came up with a play that was certain to win for him provided diamonds broke 3-2 and trumps broke 3-1 or better.

You are looking at all the cards. See if you can come up with this play.

He started by leading a diamond to dummy's ace. Then he ruffed a diamond with a high trump. This was the first key play. The second was to lead a low trump toward dummy.

West went up with jack and forced dummy with a club but it did him no good. South ruffed another diamond with another high trump. This set up the rest of dummy's diamonds. Then he drew West's last two trumps by leading his last high trump and the low trump he had kept carefully to put dummy in to run off the rest of the diamond suit.

Mr. Ingram did not mention the name of the declarer but we rather think that he himself played the hand and modestly refrained from mentioning it.

jammed the narrow streets of Warsaw's Old City.

In the cathedral, the cardinal gave a sermon asking worshippers to "smile on those who love you and on those who hate you. Do not let yourself be provoked. Whoever loves, wins; and whoever hates, whoever has mobilized hatred, has lost."

Later, during the confrontation outside the cardinal's palace, several priests and laymen shouted that "the primate asks us all to go home peacefully." Only part of the crowd heeded their message.

Recent Clashes

The incident was one of several recent clashes with police in widely separated cities. Such incidents are rarely reported.

Riot police in Gdansk last month dispersed 350 Catholics who tore down and burned a huge government signboard criticizing Church gestures to forgive the Germans for World War II. The incident followed an enthusiastic welcome for Cardinal Wyszynski.

Two other clashes with police, each involving the bitter Church-Communist conflict, broke out last month in Brzeg and Krakow.

Scientists Child

ous complications, especially in adults.

Dr. Hilleman developed the new vaccine with Dr. Eugene Buynak of Merck. Clinical tests were carried out with Drs. Robert E. Weibel and Joseph Stokes Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, and Lankenau Hospital.

In one study near Philadelphia, 402 children were vaccinated between October 1965 and last January, with another 407 studied but not vaccinated. Ninety-eight per cent of vaccinated youngsters developed antibodies, compared with none among the unvaccinated.

No Bad Symptoms

The vaccine did not produce any undesirable symptoms of the natural disease, Dr. Hilleman said.

This spring, when mumps spread naturally through the community, 61 per cent of 100 unvaccinated children known to have been exposed to mumps came down with the disease. Only two of 100 vaccinated children got mumps.

The researchers had sought for several years for a strain of mumps virus that could be altered enough so as not to cause the disease, but yet be capable of inducing immunity. The Jeryl Lynn strain met these requirements, they say.

Might Watch Launching

Some reports had indicated De Gaulle might witness the launching of a Soviet space vehicle. France and the Soviet Union will sign next Thursday an agreement on cooperation in space research and the exploitation of space for communications purposes.

French sources said only French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, a personal aide to the president, his physician and the deputy chief of his security services would accompany De Gaulle today. The rest of the party was on another plane, going directly to Leningrad.

PPR in City

tionad funds both on a county and town basis was explained to the Board of Supervisors Thursday evening by Seymour Werbalowsky, secretary of the Ulster County Board of Elections. He outlined the program and told the board that there would be necessary an additional $40,000 this year to get the PPR program under way and that next year from two and a half to three times as much as that must be provided in the budget. He also warned the supervisors of the additional cost to the towns and suggested they study the problem and provide sufficient funds in their town budgets to meet the cost next year.

There are three standard types of instruments in a string quartet—violin, viola and violoncello.

Auto Safety Bill

can mount a truly comprehensive attack on the rising toll of death and destruction on the nation's highways."

Under the auto safety bill, the first interim standards would be set by the secretary of commerce next year. They are expected to take effect on some 1968 models.

Permanent Standards

These would be followed by permanent standards which would be prescribed for the first time in 1968, and be revised and updated every two years.

The bill would cover all U.S.- and foreign-made autos sold in this country and also trucks, buses, motorcycles and motor scooters.

The measure, however, would not affect the almost 90 million autos now on the highways.

Under the measure, the secretary would have to confer with the states and the auto industry before fixing the standards. He also would be authorized to carry out a testing and research program including the development of a prototype car.

Senate sponsors of the bill said that undoubtedly the interim standards set next year would be those the government is requiring on 1967 models it will buy for its own use.

These include such things, already on many cars, as seat belts, padded dashboards, safety door latches, safety windows, dual brake systems, exhaust control devices, back-up lights, safety rims, ruptureproof fuel tanks, and safe designs for door handles, ash trays, lighters and arm rests.

The bill also would require manufacturers to notfy the first purchaser of a car of any safety-related defect and to repurchase from dealers all vehicles which do not meet the federal standards.

The highway safety bill provides aid to states and cities to help them set up comprehensive programs to reduce traffic accidents.

The three-year authorizations in the bill would include:

—$160 million for grants to states to aid in developing comprehensive plans to reduce traffic accidents.

—$55 million for highway safety research by the federal government.

—$160 million for grants to cities and counties to encourage them to develop community traffic safety programs.

—$75 million for grants to the state to spur expansion of driver education training.

—$15 million for grants to the states to help them set up or improve auto inspection plans.

Matthews Name

peals reversed all that; ruled that the position must be determined by a drawing of names. This decision meant that on any new ballot the names of Pomeroy, Bell and Francello would no longer be grouped at the top with the names of Matthews appearing below.

There is elation in the camp of S. James Matthews and his followers today. They say only that "fair play" won out, but the victory is sweet, nevertheless. Tuesday's paper ballot, which will be marked by enrolled Republicans with pencil or ink, no longer favors his three opponents, Matthews contends.

The first office to appear on the printed form is the office of Congressional candidate. The name of Hamilton Fish Jr. has been designated as 1 and then the name of Alexander Aldrich appears, numbered 2. Next will come the positions of district delegate to the Constitutional Convention with Bell as 1, Matthews as 2, Pomeroy as 3 and Francello as 4. Only three can win and the three polling the highest number of votes will be the Republican candidates.

On the ballots which were declared illegal, the position of convention delegate was followed by the words, "Vote for Three." Immediately under that was the number 3 with the names of Pomeroy, Bell and Francello with a bracket in front of their names. The ballot then contained a blank line and, numbered 4, was Matthews.

It was Matthews' contention that nowhere in the Election Law was there any justification for the brackets lumping the three candidates together. He maintained that this created the impression that each enrolled voter must vote for all of the candidates in the bracket, which was certainly not the case.

"The words 'vote for Three and tne fact that my adversaries were numbered '3' on the ballot could quite conceivably have been interpreted as a directive to vote only for the candidates who were numbered '3'," said Matthews.

The confusion which Matthews was sure would have resulted from the old ballot is a thing of the past. Friday's drawing by lot has changed all that and the only man with a problem today is the printer, who will have to work his presses overtime in order to print and distribute the ballot between now and Tuesday's Primary.

Pay $45 in Fines In City Court Today

Four motorists paid a total of $45 in fines today in city court when they admitted separate traffic charges.

Samuel B. West, of Ohayo Mt. Road, was fined $15 for passing a stopped school bus, on the complaint of Sgt. William Cameron of the state police. Howard John Eaton, 24, of 15 Shufeldt Street, was also fined $15 on a charge of making unnecessary noise.

U.S. Troops . . .

nist ground troops shot down a U.S. transport helicopter, killing six aboard. Two were wounded infantrymen whom the four-man crew was trying to evacuate.

The craft was one of a dozen hit while flying a battalion of air cavalrymen to support the Nathan Hale operation.

Two other choppers had to be lifted out of the area by a huge CH47 Chinook helicopter. The others hit were able to make it out under their own power.

The battalion was added as the operation went into its sixth day and brought to five the number of battalions involved. This amounts to about 8,000 American troops, including artillery and support elements.

384 Are Killed

U.S. troops have reported killing 384 of the enemy in the operation so far. American casualties were reported light in proportion to the number of troops involved.

Meanwhile, another 1,000 U.S. paratroopers arrived in Viet Nam today, bringing the total of American forces in Viet Nam to 271,000.

Officers and men of the 4th Battalion (Airborne) 503rd Infantry came ashore in landing boats from a troop transport at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon.

The battalion will become part of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, which arrived in Viet Nam in May 1965 made up of two airborne infantry battalions and one artillery battalion.

The commanding officer of the newly arrived battalion is Lt. Col. Michael Healy, a native of Chicago and a veteran of 21 years in the Army. He had served a previous tour in Viet Nam, with a Special Forces unit in 1963.

On the political front, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky celebrated his first year in office with a four-hour visit to Hue, a hotbed of antigovernment agitation.

The anniversary actually was a week ago, but Ky held off his visit until loyal troops re-established government control in the city which has been a spawning ground for Buddhist and student efforts to depose Ky's military regime.

Ky and his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Cao Van Vien, pinned rank insignia on a group of newly promoted soldiers and handed out awards for valor.

Faces Two Charges

Another motorist was cited for two traffic violations after a two-car mishap about 2 a. m. today on Gill Street near Catherine Street.

Police issued James McDonald, 56, of 77 Gage Street, summonses for driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. They said that a car operated by McDonald struck a vehicle owned by George R. Peterson, of 31 Gill Street, which was parked at that address, backed up and left the scene. Patrolmen Coffey and Lawrence stopped the driver a short time later on the Strand.

Patrolmen Raymond Wells and Albert Brown made the investigation.

Two other motorists were arrested and two passengers were injured in three other traffic mishaps today and Friday.

Alfred Whitfield, 32, of Lakewood, N. J., was cited by state police from the Ellenville substation for driving without a license when the car he was driving ran into another vehicle in the Fallsview Motel parking lot in Ellenville about 4 a. m. today.

Whitfield paid a $15 fine when he admitted the charge at his appearance before Peace Justice Herbert Weinsoff. Odell Valentine, 54, as passenger in the Whitfield car, suffered facial cuts.

James Patrick Hill, 20, of Pine Grove School, Saugerties, was injured and arrested on three traffic charges after a mishap involving a stolen car Friday night on Route 32 in the Town of Ulster.

State police at the Lake Katrine substation said that Hill suffered multiple cuts to the scalp and face and a dislocated left arm in the mishap. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital where he was reported in fair condition.

Grand Theft Charge

Troopers cited Hill for first degree grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a 1964 model car from the Kingston Buick Co. Inc. in Kingston; failure to keep right, and being an unlicensed operator. They said he is to be turned over to Kingston police. Troopers Craig Bremer and Richard Dempsey investigated.

Bessie Mills, 72, of Athens, suffered severe cuts to the right leg and arm as a result of a two-car mishap Friday afternoon on Route 9W near Glenerie.

Expect Dodd . . .

man trip to help Klein keep his clients there after Klein was spotlighted critically in a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on foreign agents.

But Dodd and his supporting witnesses contend the purpose of the trip was to develop a report for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee on a Soviet assassin — Bogden Stashinsky. The Soviet agent defected to West Berlin and was sentenced to eight years in prison in October 1962 for killing two Ukrainian emigree leaders in Germany with a cyanide gas gun.

A Star Witness

Dodd's star witness was his long-time aide, David Martin, who accompanied the senator on the German trip and said the only time he heard Dodd mention Klein was in a conversation with former German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

And then, Martin said, Adenauer was the one who raised the question by asking Dodd, "What about this recent Fulbright investigation."

Martin quoted Dodd as telling Adenauer that the hearings had been distorted in the German press, that Klein had not been on trial and that he was generally favorably regarded by senators.

"But not by Sen. Fulbright," Adenauer was reported to have quipped. Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Introduced into evidence was a "trip diary" prepared by Martin which included notes he had taken during the trip and letters Dodd sent to and received from the German and American officials he talked with during his trip.

The committee's counsel, Benjamin Fern, reminded Martin that in a prehearing interview Martin denied there had been a trip diary tut, snapped Fern, "now we have the diary before us."

Had Memory Blank

Martin contended he had had a "memory blank" and remembered the diary immediately "after I left your room."

"It took a long time to find it," Martin said, adding that when he turned it up in Dodd's home he turned it over to the senator's lawyers.

Fern challenged the importance that Martin had put on Stashinsky case in Dodd's trip. He drew from Martin an acknowledgement that in the six days in Germany only 6¾ hours had been devoted to interviews dealing with the Soviet agent, and that Dodd had contributed only 2½ pages to the Internal Security subcommittee report on "murder and kidnaping as an instrument of Soviet policy."

Negro Seeks

But Kenneth P. O'Donnell, a former White House aide, will run against McCormack and Boston Mayor John F. Collins will face Peabody in the primary.

In Minneapolis, the Minnesota Republican convention featured a two-man battle for the party's endorsement for governor.

The contenders, both making their first try for public office, are Harold Levader, 55, South St. Paul, and John S. Pillsbury Jr., 53, president of a Minneapolis life insurance company.

Levander took a lead immediately after the start of balloting Friday but was unable to garner the 830 votes needed for endorsement when the convention recessed early today.

In North Carolina, one of the House contests pits Smith Bagley, a Winston-Salem businessman and member of the wealthy Reynolds tobacco family, against Nick Galifianakis, a Duke University law professor. They seek the Democratic nomination in the 5th District.

The seat now is held by Rep. Ralph J. Scott, Democrat, who decided to retire. The winner will face Republican F. Fred Steele Jr. of Durham in the November general election.

There also is a contest between Donald D. Wirick and W. Hall Young for the Republican nomination in the 10th District. The seat now is held by Rep. Basil L. Whitener, a Democratic candidate for re-election.

Rain Hits Midwest Heat Wave in East

A cool air mass moving slowly eastward clashed with hot air over the northern Plains Friday night, producing severe thunderstorms and tornadoes.

To the east, across a broad section of the nation stretching to the Atlantic Coast, a heat wave entered its sixth day.

North Dakota, situated in the leading edge of the cool front, was hard hit with rain, hail and tornadoes, although damage was described as moderate.

Civil Defense officials in Scranton, a town of 358 persons, said a tornado caused $40,000 to $50,000 in damages. Other twisters brought scattered damage to buildings in several rural areas.

knocked out telephone communications in the southwestern and north central parts of North Dakota. Flooding forced the evacuation of the tiny town of Center, 50 miles northwest of Bismarck.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 37 at Butte, Mont., to 87 at Needles, Calif.

Meridith Resumes

He returned to Canton early today.

Started on June 5

Meredith, who broke the racial bar at the University of Mississippi in 1962, started the unique marathon civil rights effort June 5 in Memphis, Tenn., as a one-man crusade. He was wounded by shotgun fire the next day.

Civil rights leaders rushed in to continue the march while Meredith, now a law student at Columbia, recuperated in New York. The march has covered 244 miles in 21 days, with voter registration rallies at county courthouses along the route.

Friday night's rally in Canton was subdued. It broke up after about an hour. Meredith and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. were absent.

Leaders of the militant Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, often at odds with more moderate organizations involved in the march, were angry over a decision not to try to raise the march's tents at Canton in defiance of police orders.

"What we do from now on, we will do on our own," said Cordele Reagon, a SNCC field secretary from New York, after SNCC leaders met Friday night.

However, Reagon said it was not likely SNCC would withdraw from the march — which imposed a pledge of nonviolence on all of its members — at this late stage.

Reach Compromise

Stokely Carmichael, who heads SNCC, told friends it had been agreed that a new attempt to raise the two big revivalist-style tents would be made in Canton but that a compromise was accepted.

When a newsman who overheard, asked him to elaborate, Carmichael declined. Someone in the group yelled: "Tell us about the sellout!"

The Canton rally was held on the same school grounds where the attempt to raise the tents Thursday night was repulsed by a barrage of police tear gas.

The Rev. Andrew J. Young, a lieutenant in King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told newsmen that Canton authorities first agreed to allow the tents to be erected on the school grounds — then changed their minds.

"Also it was my understanding that suggestions were made about three pieces of property owned by Negroes," he added. "But the Negroes in the community felt that this was their school. It was their general powerlessness that they were reacting against."

Mayor Stanley Matthews denied that any agreement was made.

Others Are Busy

Though a small detachment continued the march from Canton to Tougaloo Friday, most of the column was busy elsewhere — first at a tense demonstration in Philadelphia, Miss., a Ku Klux Klan stronghold, then in Canton Friday night.

In Philadelphia, helmeted highway patrolmen backed by various other police held back a screaming, cursing crowd of whites during the demonstration.

A 15-car caravan carried about 75 from Canton to Philadelphia, 60 miles to the east, for the rally. They were joined by 200 local Negroes.

Two white men were arrested when a sports car drove into the column during the Philadelphia march, forcing demonstrators to leap to safety.

The caravan returned the 75 to Canton shortly after the demonstration ended. Marchers spent the night there.

A crew of Hollywood and Broadway entertainers, led by Sammy Davis Jr., stage a show at Tougaloo for the marchers and supporters tonight. Tougaloo is the site of predominantly-Negro Tougaloo College.

Jackson, state capital and goal of the march, lies eight miles south of Tougaloo. A massive march — King predicted thousands would join in — was planned for Sunday.

As a uniformed policeman in Precinct Number 5, Decker was assigned to a scout car which in Washington handles every crime in the book. "Homicides, robberies, housebreaking, rapes — go right down the Federal statutes, name it, and I've been there," Decker says.

With Every President

But the job has not been all terror and violence, he is quick to add. Decker, as is the case with all D. C. policemen has served on a number of special Presidential details. Decker himself has been assigned guard duty with every presiden. from Truman to Johnson, including a 32-hour stretch during the funeral for the late John F. Kennedy.

He remembers especially one experience he had on a detail for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. "It was at his second Inaugural Ball. I was on guard duty, and Ike was trying to push his way through the swarming crowds to et up to the podium and give his speech. I'd been on my feet all day long, and Ike came along right by me and stepped o my toes. Nearest I've ever come to being killed by a President."

Decker will return to Washington after examinations are given in Kingston and other areas throughout upstate New York.

British Ship Strike

LONDON (AP) — Negotiators for Britain's striking seamen have proposed a cost-cutting measure to shipowners as a way to speed progress toward a settlement of the 40-day-old walkout.

Leaders of the National Union of Seamen proposed Friday night that the Shipping Federation release a number of deck hands from watch-keeping duties to perform maintenance at sea.

The time saved would enable the shipowners to grant a union demand for 10 or 11 more days of annual leave than the number recommended by a government inquiry committee, some union leaders said.

Injured in Fall

John Mealis, of New Paltz, was taken by Don's ambulance to Kingston Hospital Friday night for treatment of cuts to the head, chin and arms after he fell at the corner of North Front and Main Streets in that village. He was treated and released.

Matthews has previously served as educational director and political instructor of Girls' State where, each June, 300 of the outstanding young ladies of the junior classes of the high schools of New York are brought together for a ten-day intensive course in local and state government.

Attorney Matthews' topic was "Political Parties." In his remarks, he gave a detailed history of the various political parties, described the duties of politicians, enumerated the changes taking place in politics today and differentiated between politics and government.

Matthews is one of four who desire to be Republican nominees for the office of District Delegate to the Constitutional Convention from the 38th Senatorial District.

Marist to Hold Open House for Honor Students

Sunday at 2 p. m., the Marist College Evening Division Student Council and Dr. John Schroeder, Dean of the Evening Division, will co-host an open house for all prospective women students who plan to enroll in the summer or fall Evening Division as well as any others interested in enrolling at Marist. The program is being coordinated by Victor Tyner, President of the Evening Division Student Council.

Dr. Schroeder will open the program with a slide presentation showing a pictorial history of Marist starting with Saint Ann's Hermitage purchased in 1905. When the Brothers bought the Beck and MacPherson farms near Poughkeepsie on the North Road, the present smoke stack and water tower of Western Printing and Lithographing Co. were not yet visible. After the spectacular MacPherson building fire of 1957, the only building on the estate worth photographing was the converted carriage house that has come to be known as Greystone and now serves as the office of the President of the college as well as the Admissions and Development offices.

Following the tour of the campus, refreshments will be served in the college dining hall.

Serving on the committee with Mr. Tyner is his Vice President Richard Stevens, Donald Fleming and Philip Pensiero. Brother Brian Desilets, F.M.S. is the faculty moderator.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

MAKE THANK-YOU NOTE PROMPT AND PERSONAL

Dear Mrs. Post: In a column, you advised someone who had not received an acknowledgment of a wedding gift. I wish you would emphasize more strongly the deplorable fact that some people not only don't acknowledge a gift promptly; some don't acknowledge them at all! How can a bride be so rude? Some I know have sent no acknowledgements for several months; from others I have had thank-you notes that were apparently the same one written to everyone—the "thank you for your gift, it will come in handy" type, or some such thing. For any kind of gift I consider this rude, and especially so for a sizable one that was chosen with care. This is one thing I wish you could stress so that perhaps some young brides (and their mothers) might see it and pay attention—Baybell Johnson.

Dear Mrs. Johnson: I am publishing your letter because I want to emphasize the rudeness of brides who do not write their thank-you notes promptly. I realize that at times it is impossible to keep up with the gifts, but I cannot think of a valid excuse for not catching up within a few weeks of the end of the honeymoon. A special sentence should be included in each letter about the gift, its suitability, how much it was needed, etc. The note need not be long, but it should make the letter distinctive and personal.

In case I have not previously stressed the importance of prompt notes strongly enough, let me do so now. A long delayed thank-you, or worse, none at all, is an inexcusable offense against good manners.

Cream Stays in the Icebox

Dear Mrs. Post: I wonder if you might help me with a matter that while trivial, is nonetheless perplexing to me. When serving coffee, if the hostess is well aware that her guests do not take cream, does she serve it anyway? My husband is certain that it is wasteful and illogical to do so, but I feel it looks odd not to.—Carol Scott.

Dear Mrs. Scott: If you are absolutely certain that none of your guests take cream in their coffee, I agree with your husband, it is entirely unnecessary to serve it.

Governor Orders Office Overhaul In Mental Health

A sweeping reorganization of the central office in the Department of Mental Hygiene has been authorized by Governor Nelson Rockefeller in cooperation with Commissioner Alan D. Miller.

Major objectives of the reorganization are to free the commisioner and first deputy from routine problems, giving them more time for active leadership, overall management, intergovernmental problems, and contact with external agencies; to highlight planning, developing and coordinating of local services; to provide adequate central office staffff support for key personnel; to facilitate assimilation of new programs in mental health and mental retardation and establish a basis for regionalization of Department activities.

The reorganization will establish separate divisions of mental health and mental retardation to develop and administer programs for the mentally ill and mentally retarded in the Department's hospitals and schools and in the localities.

In addition, a division of local services will be established as a third major operating division with responsibility for supervising and conducting local operated services.

Dr. Hyman Pleasure, formerly director of Middletown State Hospital, and well known in the Kingston area in connection with Halfway House located at 99 Clinton Avenue in Kingston, is now Deputy Commissioner, in charge of this division.

Home Extension Service News

Talk about tension is the topic discussed in the following article by Phyllis W. Barlow, extension home economist:

June is a busy month for all family members — it means exams and the end of school to the youngsters, it means getting ready for high school proms and graduations, it means a houseful of children all day to many mothers, a vacation to plan, a garden to weed, ad infinitum. During these busy days both temperatures and tempers will often begin to soar.

The tensions that can accompany these hectic days can get us into serious trouble both physically and emotionally if they are allowed to mount. For our own protection and to keep a calm home atmosphere, each of us has to find ways to overcome some of these daily tensions. In the booklet, "How to Deal with People," Dr. George Stevenson makes some timely suggestions.

TALK IT OUT — When something worries you, talk it over with some level-headed person you can trust. This can help you see your problem in a clearer light and perhaps see a solution too.

ESCAPE FOR A WHILE—Lose yourself in a movie, a book, or a game. But be prepared to come back and deal with the situation when you are a little more relaxed.

WORK OFF YOUR ANGER—If you feel like lashing out at someone, try to hold off a while. Pitch into some physical activity like gardening or cleaning out the garage. You may not be as mad when you're finished.

TAKE ONE THING AT A TIME—If you have a work load that seems unbearable, take the most urgent tasks and do them one at a time. After the first few are finished the rest will go much easier.

SHUN THE SUPERMAN URGE—Don't expect too much of yourself. No one can be perfect in everything. Decide which things you can do well and put your major effort into these. Then do the things you can't do as well, but don't blame yourself if you can't achieve the impossible.

Try it! Slow down and relax a little—June is really a lovely month.

League Backing Vote on State Balloting Law

Presidents of area League of Women Voters organizations this week urged the active support of State Senator Lloyd Newcombe and Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson for passage of the New York Senatorial Bill which would authorize the use of separate paper ballots in electing 15 delegates-at-large to the 1967 New York State Constitutional Convention.

The presidents involved were Mrs. Stanley Plasker, Kingston League; Mrs. J. R. Wood, Woodstock; Mrs. Roy Ohno, Saugerties and Mrs. John Laffan, New Paltz.

The League officials said they are seeking passage of the bill "to guarantee New Yorkers their constitutional right to vote for any 15 of the statewide delegates, rather than limiting them to a bloc vote under a single party designation."

They added that passage of the bill would eliminate the mechanical difficulties expected to arise if many voters not wishing to elect a bloc of candidates of one party have to use the write-in ballot. "Repeated use of the write-in ballot might tend to jam the voting machine and lead to invalidation of votes for other candidates on the ballot," they said.

an open letter to brides-to-be:

A beautiful wedding is one that is successfully planned. After it is all over, the bride will attest to the fact that a most important help is the cooperation by the shop where she purchased her gown and her attendant's gowns. Also she was secure in the knowledge that her wedding gown was individual as were her attendants, because she was able to select from lots of styles, and thus create her own idea of a wedding party and not just settle for something five other brides had.

It's at DOREEN'S you can achieve an individual look in wedding fashions. Bridals are $65 to $125 and up, and attendants gowns are $25 to $40. Each is fitted to perfection and ready to take home weeks before the wedding, if you so desire.

Orders are not taken unless we can guarantee delivery—you will find this very important to you, because we have become known for "guaranteed delivery" with "no substitutions" at the last minute.

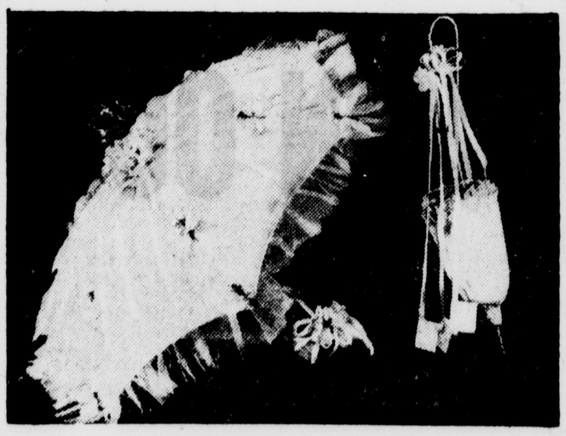

If you are planning a wedding, our bridal consultant awaits your pleasure and you can count on the complete privacy of a pre-arranged appointment. Tel. 331-6047 day or evening — closed Tuesday. For your convenience we suggest that you use our layaway plan.

Francello States His Position

Louis P. Francello, one of the candidates for the position of Delegate to the Constitutional Convention to be voted for at the Primary Election on June 28, issued a statement today outlining his position. Francello's statement is as follows:

As we approach the Primary Election this coming Tuesday, I would like to make my position clear on some subjects which will be considered at next year's Constitutional Convention. Since space and time are limited I will touch on a few of the questions asked of me during the campaign.

On reapportionment I agree that the state should be divided into districts which should be as equal in population as possible. However, the areas placed in each district should have common interests. Eventually a constitutional plan should be evolved whereby one house of the legislature would be based on geographical lines as the Dirksen Amendment now in Congress.

Influential groups of judges and members have suggested the abolition of the right to a jury trial in certain civil cases. They claim that this reform is needed because of crowded court calendars and that it takes too long to try a jury case. Every person should have his day in court, no matter how long it takes and should have 12 persons pass on his case, not one. I am strongly opposed to the elimination of the right to a jury trial where it is presently available.

There is also a movement afoot for the elimination of the justice of the peace courts and replacing them with district courts. I stand for keeping our present system of justice courts because they are of great service to the community and the general public. At least one of the two judges is generally available at all hours of the day and night and most cases are disposed of at one hearing. Today's justice of the peace attends a school for justices before he takes office. He is well-informed as to the law pertaining to his court and renders swift and impartial justice.

In the field of conservation I am a firm believer in the conserving of as much of our natural resources as possible. Canal systems in our State are regarded by many as relics of a by-gone era. When no longer in commercial use they should be kept for their scenic beauty, for recreation and most important of all, as a reserve water supply.

The state lands now constituting our forest preserve shall forever be kept as forest lands. So says the present constitution. As a keen outdoorsman and sportsman, I am well aware of the problems of conservation. Not only should our natural resources be preserved for their natural beauty, but also for the recreation which they afford to the fishermen and hunters of our state.

As the constitution now stands, our forest preserve is immune from exploitation for commercial use. It is also insulated from the influence of financially strong power groups. This is as it should be, and as your Delegate to the Constitutional Convention, I will fight to retain the present provisions of Article 14 which keeps our forest lands forever wild.

Dear Abby . . .

Brother Didn't Like Cat Food

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother is the kind who will walk into your house, head right for the refrigerator and help himself. It has always burned me up, but I've never said anything. Sunday Ned did that stunt again. He took out a bowl of liver and mashed potatoes I had scraped off everybody's plates and had mixed with cat food. I was saving it for the neighbor's cat, which I am feeding while she is on vacation. Well, Ned made himself a big sandwich of this stuff, got himself a beer, and seemed to enjoy it. I never said a word until he got all through, and then I told him what he ate. I am not going to tell you what happened after that, Abby, but I laughed so hard I cried. Ned isn't talking to me and neither is my husband. Did I do anything so terrible? The stuff was fresh and wouldn't have killed anybody.

ELSIE

DEAR ELSIE: I think it was hilarious. But you could have waited a few days to tell him.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Bob's Common Law Wife," who lost three husbands and therefore feared to marry number four, the following story from the Bible:

Sarah, the wife of Abraham, lost not three but seven husbands on the first night of her marriages. Foul play was suspected; she herself thought that the devil had been destroying her bridegrooms. Prospective husband number eight was told by the Angel Raphael not to fear to wed her; that when a man and woman love and worship together, the devil has no power over them. They married; Sarah's father sadly arose before dawn and dug a grave for his prospective son-in-law. But lo, the bridal couple greeted him at their door! And they lived happily ever after. So, please tell "Bob's Common Law Wife" that where there is the presense of God in a marriage, they need not be afraid.

A BELIEVER

DEAR BELIEVER: I am deeply indebted to you for your beautiful letter. While a newspaper column makes interesting reading for many, the answer to all problems can be found between the two covers of the Bible, "Seek and ye shall find."

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have had a mild disagreement going on 20 years. We have three children, 18, 16, and 12. My husband is a good provider, a wonderful father, and really an ideal husband (almost). But there is something that has been bugging me ever since we were married. He has always dressed and undressed in the bedroom closet. He insists that just because people are married they do not have to lose their modesty. I believe in modesty, too, but after all these years I am not quite that naive. Am I wrong to insist that he come out of the closet?

FREDDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Let him hide in the closet. What's the difference? He doesn't SLEEP there.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: If your name were not Mary and in one of your most tender and intimate moments your husband whispered, "O Mary," what would you do?

NOT MARY

DEAR NOT: I'd probably do what you did, and spoiled everything.

Arrest Anti-Poverty Workers in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-four antipoverty workers were arrested Friday when they staged a sit-down on the sidewalk in front of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's office here.

They were part of a delegation of 150 workers who picketed the office throughout the day in an effort to see the governor.

The sit-down started after Jackie Robinson, the governor's special assistant for community programs, told the pickets the governor's schedule was too crowded for him to see them without an appointment.

Robinson former Brooklyn Dodgers baseball star, was booed.

Later, Robinson said, "We offered them a Monday meeting in Albany but they said they didn't want that."

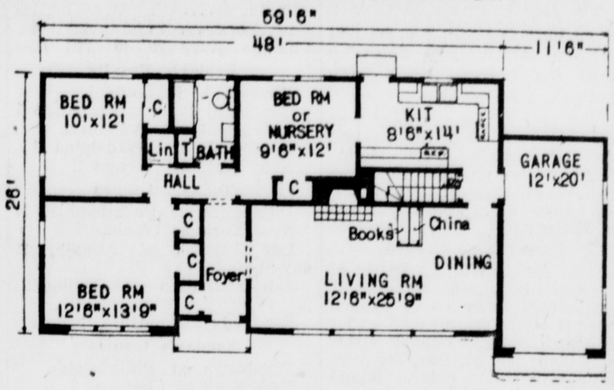

Those arrested were released in their own custody for hearings Aug. 4.

The demonstrators said they wanted Rockefeller's aid in getting the Legislature to pass a bill which would allocate $25 million in state funds for anti-poverty work.

The workers contended that many community progress centers already had received word that their programs would be cut back in view of the fact that the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity had provided only $36 million of a requested $56.3 million for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

This House Has Special Feature for Young Family

By JACK McELENEY

The home plan presented today by Associated Architects has a special feature for young families—a bedroom that may be used as a nursery. What makes this room special is its extra door, putting it in direct contact with the kitchen. Mother working in the kitchen is able to do so in fullest confidence because she can respond immediately to a cry or call from the nursery, instead of having to detour through one or more rooms.

Used as an ordinary bedroom, the nursery has a regular entrance, like the two other bedrooms in "The Templeton." It has ample closet space, whether its occupant is very young or otherwise. A double window makes this a cheerful chamber, indeed.

There is very generous closet space in the two larger bedrooms. The master bedroom, in fact, has two closets. A triple window here matches its 12½ by 13¾ feet.

I want to point out the advantages of the living room in this home. It measures 12½ by 25¾ feet, and includes sufficient space for a full dining area at one end. An unusually large window wall, with eight big panes of glass, creates a dramatic partition, inside and out, framed as it is with an outside window box. Family and guests will come to regard this living room as a haven of recreation or rest, as the case may be, partly because of its size and comfort, partly because of the fireplace located on an inside wall.

Separating the two sections is a semi-partition which is actually a built-in piece of furniture. One side is a bookcase, the other a china cabinet. You save the cost of both, were you to purchase them in a furniture store.

The plan calls for a one-car garage, 12 by 22 feet, joining the house directly. This represents comfort and economy; comfort in that there is a direct entry from garage to kitchen (strategically located in front of the basement steps for maximum cleanliness) and economy in that an adjoining garage saves the cost of constructing one wall.

If you've been on board ship you may have seen those efficient, compact kitchens that function so well. The galley arrangement is used in the kitchen of "The Templeton," although you'll notice in the floor plan that nothing is cramped. Range and sink are at one side, connected by counters. The refrigerator is opposite with a long counter of its own. The back door of the house opens to the kitchen, another convenience for reaching the children quickly.

You'll want to see every detail of this striking ranch house, to decide if this is the home for you. Associated Architects are making available sets of blueprints at moderate cost which may be used in actual construction, should you go ahead and build. Please use the accompanying coupon when you order. Be sure to indicate if you want drawings with basement or without. The living area of "The Templeton" is 1,240 square feet. Garage adds another 253 square feet, making 1,493 square feet in all.

All plans show how the house may be built of wood siding, brick veneer or concrete block. With your order you will receive at no extra charge a set of specifications to help protect your investment. The design of "The Templeton," like all Associated Architects' plans, follows property and construction requirements of the Federal Housing Administration. Electrical wiring is planned according to the National Electrical Code, for fire safety.

Find Croton Resident

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Peace Corps volunteer from Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., missing for 10 days in Brazil before being found last Friday, was in George Washington Hospital here today and reported in good condition.

A Peace Corps spokesman said that Stephen Rutledge, 25, was "hospitalized for medical evaluation and consultation" Friday.

Rutledge, who had been working at a community project in a small town in northeast Brazil, was found in a hotel about 50 miles from the area of his assignment.

Work Stoppage Closes Clinics, Health Center

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's 232 health centers, stations and special clinics were either closed Friday or severely hampered by a work stoppage of nearly 1,500 members of the Doctors Association.

Contract talks between the doctors and the city broke off until Tuesday.

Dr. Donald Meyer, president-elect of the Doctors Association, said he would recommend to the membership Monday some retaliation against Morrisania Hospital in the Bronx. He charged that two "volunteer" doctors reopened the closed clinic at the hospital.

Meyer said that Teamsters Union Local 237 and District Council 37 of the State, County and Municipal Employes Union have pledged not to cross any doctors' picket lines. This could mean a halt in truck deliveries and a work stoppage by administrative clerks at picketed institutions.

The doctors are seeking an increase from $23 for half-day sessions at clinics to $43.50. They also are demanding a guaranteed number of work days, and a retirement fund.

Between the 1952 and 1963 seasons, Straub's Saugerties High baseball teams won 143 games and lost only 57. During that period the Sawyers captured the three Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) titles 1952, 1956 and 1957) and two Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL championships in 1958 and 1963.

A graduate of Catskill High where he won varsity letters in baseball, basketball and soccer, Straub launched his coaching career in 1950 as a basketball coach at his alma mater.

Kitsos Stars in Mohawks Victory

Bill Kitsos was the winning pitcher in relief and collected three hits, including two doubles, as Mohawks defeated Sioux, 7-4, to square their Met Knot Hole League record at 4 wins and 4 losses.

Kitsos, Dave Brandon and Bill Martin combined to check Sioux on two hits — singles by Ray Madden and Steve Schalenkame. Madden was the losing pitcher. Bill Martin hit two singles for the winners. Three runs in the sixth broke a 4-4 tie.

Yacht Race Won By Thunderbird

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Thunderbird won the over-all honors in the Newport, R.I. to Bermuda ocean yacht race and probably no one was more surprised than her owner, T. Vincent Learson of Rye, N.Y.

Learson had lest Bermuda for home before his class D sloop was announced as the over-all winner of the 635-mile race late Friday night, six days after the record fleet of 163 boats had left Newport.

Nike, a class F Argentina sloop owned by Curt Steinweg of Buenos Aires, was declared second in the over-all calculations produced by a computer this year for the first time.

Thunderbird, steered by Lowell North of Costa Mesa, Calif. with Chick Larkin of Buffalo, N.Y. as navigator, finished 20th to Kialoa II, a class A sloop owned by John Kilroy of Los Angeles, and had not figured in speculation as to the over-all winner.

Bill Bailey Inks Buffalo Contract

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Rookie halfback Bill Bailey of the University of Cincinnati has signed a 1966 contract with the Buffalo Bills, the American Football League champions said today.

Bailey signed as a free agent. He gained 694 yards in 139 carries for Cincinnati last season.

4 Local Entries; Mielke Conceded Chance in J.J.

The usual Sunday morning quiet of the Colonial City will be shattered by the roar of high-powered speed boats competing in the Albany to New York motor boat race which should come zooming past Kingston about 10 a. m.

The race is scheduled to kick off in three heats at 9 a. m. just south of Albany and finish up near the George Washington Bridge around noon.

The record for the race was set three years ago by the late Hank Bowman in a twin-engine Mercury powered Glastron. Bowman zipped through the rugged 135 course at an average speed of 54.7 m.p.h.

Expect New Record

Russ Van DeWal, chairman of the marathon, said he expects that record to be easily broken since it was accomplished under shifting tides and choppy water conditions. The forecast for Sunday calls for clear, humid weather in the 90's with little or no wind; perfect racing conditions.

At present, with the deadline for entries tonight, there are four local boats and one craft piloted by Paul Mielke of Fort Montgomery, who is well known in area boating circles.

Mielke's craft could be the one to watch. It is an 18 foot specially built Dorsett with a 210 horsepower engine. The craft was designed and built by the Dorsett company for this race and will carry a representative of the firm in the race. It will compete in the JJ, or unlimited class, and will carry the number, JJ-8. It is capable of speeds above 80 miles an hour.

Local Entries

Other local entries include Gus Stopski Jr., in Class J piloting a 16-footer with a 110 horsepower engine in Class I. They name a partner. All boats must have at least two people in them.

Warren Spinneweber and John Sherlock will team up in a 15½-footer powertd by a 100 horsepower engine in ClassI. They face stiff competition from Bill Myer of Westfield, N. J., who will be gunning for class honors in his Switzer built single engine craft.

Class H features Frank Giordano in a 17-footer and a 90 horsepower mill. Theodore March of Gettysburg, Pa., is highly rated in that class. He is the defending champion. Paul Dunn of Port Jefferson is the defending champion in Class H.

Bob Millette and John Fiore are racing in Class E in a 13½ foot 50 horsepower boat. This class looks to be anybody's race.

Excellent Prizes

Winners will receive $100 from the Nisonger KLG Company. The firm will also present the KLG Challenge Cup to the overall winner. Miss Dawn Vaughn of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., who last week was named Miss Marathon, will present the cup.

Winners in each class will also receive the Mennen Company Trophy to be presented by company president George Mennen.

Addisional awards have also been posted, one of which will be a Mercury outboard motor offered by the Keikhaefer Corp. to each class victor.

Clutch Colavito Paces Cleveland

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Rock still is rolling.

Continuing a homer assault that began Wednesday, Rocky Colavito fired a two-homer salvo for Cleveland Friday night and now has collected six in his last four games while lifting his total for the season to 13—almost double what it was three days ago.

The Indians, however, have been unable to give Colavito much assistance and have split the four games, bowing to Kansas City and the A's 15-hit attack, 7-5, while their slugging outfielder put on his latest one-man show.

Bombs 3 in Boston

Colavito began flexing his muscles in Fenway Park when he slammed three homers in Wednesday's doubleheader. He added one more against the Red Sox Thursday, then moved his show back to Cleveland and the more spacious Municipal Stadium.

And Rocky continued to roll, driving in all of the Indians' runs with a solo homer in the fourth inning, a three-run job in the seventh and a run-producing single in the ninth.

Colavito also was robbed of another homer when Jim Gosger reached high above the left field fence to haul in his long drive in the second inning.

The loss left the third-place Indians three games behind the American League-leading Baltimore Orioles, who lost to California 5-4 in 14 innings. Second-place Detroit closed to within 1½ of the top with a split, beating Minnesota 2-1 and losing 9-2.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-2 and Boston belted Washington 5-1.

Touring Pros Due at Concord

More than 20 touring pros will participate in the Concord Hotel's second annual golf jamboree at the Sullivan County resort's plush new layout on July 6-7-8.

Among the professionals already lined up for the event are Art Wall, Bert Yancey, Jim Ferrer, Ed Furgol, Miller Barber, Bob Toski, Roger Ginsberg, Tom Weiskopf, Jimmy Demaret, Jack Burke, Gordon Jones and Dick Crawford.

Gene Sarazan, veteran golf great from Germantown, is scheduled to return, along with Frank Wharton, young star who set the record for the testing layout with a 68 on opening day last year. He posted an 80 in the second round.

The course can be made to range in length from 6,260 to 7,062 yards in accordance with the calibre of tournament.

Vandalism Hits Area Golf Clubs

Golf vandalism, one of the most difficult to cope with, has struck two area golf clubs in recent days.

The vandals first hit Wiltyck Country Club, where extensive damage was done to greens on the easterly side of the course.

At Woodstock Country Club this week vandals snipped the banners off the flags at every hole and made off with the tee markers on several holes.

Both incidents are under investigation. But the sad history of area golf clubs is that breakins and vandalism will happen again.

State Amateur Pairings Listed

Pairings and starting times have been announced for the seven Kingston area players in New York State Amateur qualifying round June 29 at Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

George Cosenza of Wiltwyck is scheduled at 9:24 with John Pretak of North Redoubt and Stephen J. Schofield, Southern Dutchess.

9:40—Form Coughlin, Twaalfskill; Richard Ochs, Powelton; Jerry Affron, Otterkill.

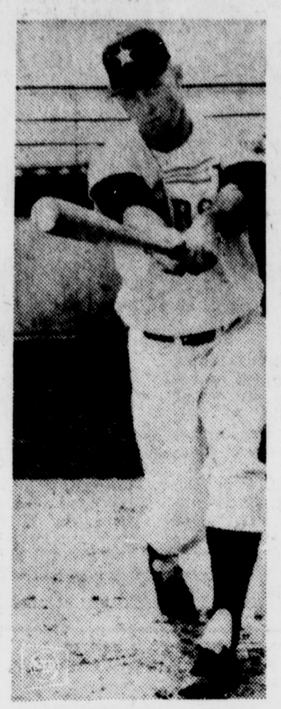

9:56 — Harvey Bostic, Wiltwyck; Lawrence McGinnis, Dutchess; George W. Veach Jr., IBM.

2:00—George Hughes, Twaalfskill; Robert Hoe, Dutchess; Chauncey Maggiacomo, Dutchess.

2:24 — Edward Kovacs, Wiltwyck; Dewitt Newkirk, Dogwood Knolls; John Ashmead, So. Dutchess.

The state tournament will be played July 19-23 at the Concord Golf Club at Kiamesha Lake. Fifteen places will be at stake in the 60-player field at Dutchess.

LAST YEAR Dave Nicholson was a strikeout leader. But this year, for Grady Hatton's surprising Houston Astros, Nicholson not only has cut down on third strikes but he's among the National League's top hitters as well.

Casper-Palmer Showdown Looms In Western Open

CHICAGO (AP)—The $100,000 Western Open Golf Tournament still is a Billy Casper-Arnold Palmer showdown although a pair of comparative newcomers held the lead entering today's third round.

Attention is centered on Casper—the one-time roly-poly pro who is defending champion—and Palmer, trying to please his army by recouping mentally from his National Open blowup last week. Then, Casper rallied to tie him on the last round and did the same in a playoff to take the title.

The methodical Casper carved a 72 through Medinah's par 71 timberland for a midway total of 141.

Arnie blistered the back side with 33 for a 70 to be locked at 142 with Tommy Bolt, first round leader who is nursing a wrenched back; Tony Lema, consistently shooting his second 71; Ken Venturi, and Jack McGowan, who tied for second in the 1965 Western Open and also fired his second 71 despite "the spooky Medinah greens."

Out in the lead at 140, however, were two former University of Houston teammates, swarthy Homero Blancas, PGA rookie of the year in 1965 who has had driving troubles this season, and Kermit Zarley, making his best showing on the tour with $26,276 in winnings.

Each carded 69s Friday. Zarley defeated Blancas in match play 5 and 4 to win the NCAA title in 1962 at Duke.

Ferraro Shutout Gets Bankers 10th

Jim Ferraro and Billy Samuels engaged in a tight pitcher's duel in the American League with Jim's team, Rondout National Bank, winning its tenth straight, 1-0, over the Lions Club.

The only run scored in the game came in the first inning on a walk to Mark Josefski, a Ferraro double and John Milano's sacrifice fly.

Then the pitching and defense took over. The Lions threatened in the fourth. Vin Netherwood singled cleanly and Mike Vaselewski cracked a long double, but a perfect relay from right fielder Josefski to first baseman Milano to catcher John Joy cut Netherwood down at the plate.

Joy made a diving catch to end the game. Samuels was outstanding in defeat, pitching a three hitter, including two doubles to Ferraro, and striking out 12. Ferraro gave up four hits.

The daily double (4 and 3) paid $136.60. Winning horses were Lucky Mimi in the first and Flashy Patch in the second. The twin double returned $2,670.00. Winning combination was 4-2-2-8. There were 13 live tickets.

Pythias Lodge At Monticello

MONTICELLO—Another first will be established at Monticello Raceway tonight when the track honors the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias. The Knights, who are holding their annual convention at the nearby Concord Hotel, will send approximately 1,000 of their members to the scenic mountain oval and thus establish a record as the largest group to ever attend the races at the Mighty M.

The feature race of the evening will be named in their honor and a trophy presentation will be made to the winning driver. Making the presentation will be Grand Chancellor Leonard A. Weiss and Grand Chief Peggy H. Sonnenberg.

Propose Legal Service For Welfare Recipients

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — An aide to the Nassau County Welfare Commission has proposed a legal service for welfare recipients "who are exploited, harassed and set upon in matters of civil law and public law."

John DeWitt Gregory, who also is a lawyer, made that proposal Friday to the 300 persons attending the annual meeting here of the New York Public Welfare Association.

Nassau County, with assistance from the State Social Welfare Department, has applied to the U. S. Health, Education and Welfare Department for mission to try the legal - aid project for a year.

Gregory said many welfare recipients need counseling on such matters as installment buying, housing, and court proceedings.

Lawyers representing such persons would be paid by the government, persons seeking legal aid could choose their own counsel, Gregory said.

Falls From Boat, Drowns

PLAINVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — George H. Millson, 58, of Syracuse, was drowned Friday when he fell from a small boat in which he had been fishing into Cross Lake near here, about 15 miles northwest of Syracuse.

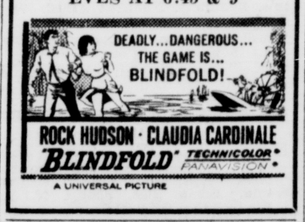

State Police said they believe Millson was attempting to restart an outboard motor on the boat when the accident occurred. His body was recovered from about 10 feet of water.

Primary Day Comes Into Its Own; Is Recognized Force in County

BY TOBIE GEERTSEMA
(Freeman Staff Writer)

Primary Day, until only recently, made few ripples in Ulster County. Normally, in the past years, the day came, and went without incidence and without note. Few enrolled voters of any party bothered to vote at all and poll workers around the county yawned their way through the day as a thin stream of men and women trickled through polling places in the area. . .if, indeed any felt compelled to come at all.

Larger villages throughout Ulster were lucky to attract as many as a dozen voters over the years and the apathy was just as pronounced in the cities. Within the last three years, however, Primary Day has become something of a cause celebre locally. There is always an interesting contest or contests of late and balloting is heavier than most would believe possible.

Ever since Lloyd A. Newcombe of Catskill shattered the complacency of the Republican Party hereabouts with a hard-hitting primary campaign for State Senator in 1964, interest in primary elections has been on the upsurge. On his first foray into politics, Newcombe brought out the voters in large numbers and some polling places actually came close to playing to standing room only. So close was the vote in the GOP contest that observers questioned, whether the holes in the ranks and the break in Republican solidarity could ever be repaired. Newcombe, it will be remembered, won in Greene and Ulster Counties, but lost in Delaware and Sullivan.

Established Newcombe as Forerunner

He ran so well, however, against long-time State Senator E. Ogden Bush in what was then the 34th Senatorial District that his political star went into the ascendancy. Primary Day 1964, so to speak, made the name of Lloyd A. Newcombe a name to be reckoned with in area politics. He went on to win the same seat in what had become the 43rd District the following time around in the next general election.

The 1964 Primary also boasted other distinguishing factors. There was another Republican contest that year for the party position of delegate to the Republican National Convention from the 28th Congressional District, which pitted Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock and Myrtie Tinklepaugh of Livingston against Lewis I. Hall of West Hurley and Kent Leavitt of Millbrook. Dissension in the Democratic ranks was also evident that year when a primary contest took place between Dorothy A. Narel and Harriet A. Kerr for State Committeewoman.

One might say that 1964 was the granddaddy of primary years locally. It was the first time such elections had elicited major interest here; became a force to reckon with in area politics; and set the tone and the stage for the future.

"Bossism" Enters Picture

The growing disarray in the area GOP was further highlighted in the fall primary of 1965. In what turned out to be a circus of slambang proportions, the choice by delegates to the Ulster County Republican convention of Maurice Goldberg of Woodstock as Surrogate Judge of the county, led to a much talked about primary contest. Charges of "bossism"—a word never used by staunch Republicans in this area before—were levelled over the radio and in the press. The split widened when Arthur A. Davis sought to eliminate Goldberg from the November ballot by beating him in the primary. The ensuing campaign split the GOP straight down the middle, if not actually into even more one-sided proportions. Large Sums of money were poured into the primary campaign—a distinct break with the past, when candidates in such elections rarely bothered to even have posters printed or press releases written. So bad was the rupture and the rift that a vote of confidence for Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, County Republican Chairman, was called for and given.

The upshot was that the course of Maurice Goldberg, like true love, ran unsmoothly — and the political career of Arthur Davis crested when he weathered the fire to win the primary.

Curiously, Lloyd Newcombe found himself again involved in a primary in 1965. His showing in the primary the previous year had made him the party's candidate to succeed his old opponent, Bush. Yet, just as he had taken his cause to the primary he found another Republican doing the same. Challenged by Stanley L. Voulelis, of Middletown, for the State Senate seat, his campaign, too, waxed hot and heavy before he won out over Voulelis.

There were also three contests that year between opposing candidates seeking supervisor seats in several wards of the City of Kingston — and there were several contests in the county for committeemen.

Barriers or Bridges?

Primary Day itself took something of a beating during the course of the 1965 campaigns here. Old guard Republicans questioned whether primaries were good; suggested they were actually "barriers" to better government. The opposition answered they were more "bridge" than "barrier."

In any event, Primary Day has continued to gain momentum locally and this year, too, it boasts heightened drama. For one thing, Lloyd A. Newcombe, who had his shining hour twice in primaries, no longer rides across the field of battle. After one brief year as State Senator, a job he fought for at considerable expense and with tooth and nail two times running, he has been reapportioned right out of a desk. What was once the 34th Senatorial District and later the 43rd District (comprised of Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware Counties), has become the new 38th District, Comprised of only Ulster and Dutchess Counties. Newcombe chose not to try his luck in the new district in which he would now have to run; is seeking instead to become a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in Albany next year.

Even without him, the primary election next Tuesday, June 28, is a fighting affair — and all because of another man, who is not running either. The big imponderable this year throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley is Democratic Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, of Ellenville, who wrested from the stunned GOP two years ago the 28th Congressional District seat they have traditionally considered their own.

Tradition dies hard and the GOP wants the district seat back and they want it now. They have come up with two candidates who seek Resnick's job and, in order to solve the problem, the two have challenged each other in Tuesday's primary.

Becomes Big Business

Huge billboards around the county, reams of publicity releases in dozens of newspapers, hundreds of spot radio announcements and statewide television coverage have resulted from the fight, proving once again that primaries can be a tough business and that candidates mean business.

Involved in this Congressional slugfest are Hamilton Fish Jr. and Alexander Aldrich. So crucial is their primary battle that interest in the election is again paramount. On the paper ballot being used in Ulster County for Tuesday's primary, the first office to appear on the printed form is the office of Congressional candidate. Traditionally, the first name on the ballot is supposed to attract attention more readily. Fish has been designated for the first position on the ballot and Aldrich is listed second.

The paper ballots, which will be marked by enrolled Republicans by pencil and ink, have drawn fire from S. James Matthews, who has charged the ballot with being "illegal, unfair and confusing." The hard-hiting primary campaign by Matthews has served to add even more spice to Tuesday's election. Matthews took umbrage at the selection of delegates by the Republican party to the Constitutional Convention; chose to challenge them.

In a four-way race in which only three can emerge victorious, Matthews has entered the Primary Day fray against R. Watson Pomeroy, H. Clark Bell and Louis P. Francello.

Other Contests Slated

If Republicans seem to have cornered Primary Day for their own devices, this is not actually the case. The Liberal Party is the only party not holding a primary this year. Enrolled Democratic voters, too, will be trudging to the polls. The trek was made necessary when Kingston Attorney John J. Schick decided to challenge Hurley Democratic Town Chairman James T. McCardle for the party office of State Committeeman. McCardle was the choice of the Ulster County Democratic Convention, but by the very slimmest of margins.

The Conservative Party, not to be outdone, has its own contest. Jay. P. Rolison Jr., who is the choice of the Republican Party for State Senator, and who has also been endorsed by the Conservative Party, is being challenged by Frank E. Becker. For good measure, Conservatives have come up with a five-candidate contest for Constitutional Convention delegates. Running in this one again are R. Watson Pomeroy, H. Clark Bell and Louis P. Francello, the Republicans on whom S. James Matthews has drawn a bead. In the Conservative primary, they are being challenged by Alexander W. Salay and Harold Clark.

With such a wealth of candidates for such a variety of political jobs, Ulster County residents are expected to flock to the polls for this 1966 Primary Day. Those who plan to do so must be currently enrolled in their party, meaning they must have voted in the last election or registered in the party last May. Polling places around the county will be open Tuesday from 12 noon to 9 p. m.

Primary Has Value

What the last three years have proven here, actually, is the value of the primary to democracy. The primary, quite often, is a major means by which the people can give their mandate to a candidate seeking election. It is not the "suicidal" force that some have accused it of being—but is, more often than not, a beneficial undertaking.

Many men owe their political careers to the primary and the Presidential candidates of this country have all fought the primary battle. Some claim that primary candidates seek to destroy all the work that a party has accomplished, but they are always answered by others that party loyalty is as much a matter of respect for party traditions and services as of party choices—and no tradition, they point out, is older than that of the primary election.

Primary Day, it seems to us, far from being a seat of vested interest, is an integral part of the American political system. It is the vote in primary elections which officially designates the party slates and every important political contest in the history of this country has found its beginning in the primary balloting. The primary is, quite possibly, the very key to a successful party. Barrier or bridge? The voters usually decide which and, in almost every instance, they decide well, using good judgment and the time-honored horse sense for which they are famed.

Kennedy Is Opposed To Amending Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D - N.Y., says he is opposed to amending New York State's new medical care plan "before it has a chance to demonstrate its impact."

The senator said Friday that, if the plan is amended before it "has a chance," the "possibilities of improving the quality of health care throughout the nation' could be affected.

In addition, Kennedy announced his support for Democrat Anthony J. Travia, the Speaker of the New York State Assembly, in Travia's efforts to block Republican efforts to amend the controversial program.

FULL WEEK'S LISTINGS OF TV PROGRAMS, JUNE 26th THRU JULY 2nd

Don't get ready to welcome the wanderers home just yet, mother—the lighthearted and sometimes lightheaded inhabitants of Gilligan's Island are marooned on their seabound real estate for another season. Every week on CBS-TV.

TV Scout Reports

Bette Davis is looking for a small house here. It would be her first in some years.

"California is growing up," Bette says. "It used to be that as soon as a picture was over, I'd leave—I couldn't stand it here. Nobody talked about anything except the picture business. But now I find some intellectual stimulation here. This place is coming of age."

There's more to a successful movie career than a lot of money and six cars in the garage. Tony Curtis cites one of the more delightful fringe benefits.

"Look at this," he said, showing me a letter from a front-page figure. "The opportunities are so great in this business of meeting important and stimulating people. I've met Melvin Belli and the painter, Buffet, and writers and newspapermen. And I get to talk to them on equal terms.

"And there's travel, too. I've been all over. But some actors are so stupid, they don't take advantage of this chance. I have a friend who did a film in Paris and stayed in his hotel room, playing poker, the whole time he wasn't working. He was too scared to go out. What a waste."

Sandy Baron, who will be on NBC-TV's new series Hey Landlord, is a former songwriter who has had tunes recorded by Connie Francis, Nat Cole, Brian Hyland, Adam Wade and Ferlin Husky.

Rumors are floating around that NBC-TV thinks so highly of Bill Cosby they are trying to sign him to a 20-year contract.

• • •

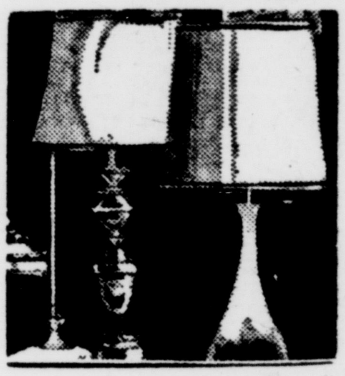

Basil Rathbone, while still a British subject, makes his home in New York. Someone asked him why he never returned to England to live and he said, "I couldn't stand that climate."

Gilligan's Marooned for Another Season on That Good, Old Island

By ISOBEL ASHE
Hollywood

Once upon-a-time on a Saturday night a new television show premiered, and received perhaps the worst reviews in the history of the infant medium. The nation's television editors, almost en masse, denounced the program without mercy.

And what, you ask, happened to the program? Not a darned thing but success and higher ratings. The show is now preparing for a third smash year on the air, over CBS-TV.

WHICH SHOW? Gilligan's Island, that's which show, and everyone connected with the series has his own reason why it's a hit.

"Sure we were shattered by those first reviews," recalls Alan Hale, who plays the skipper on the show. "Who wouldn't be? We just resolved to try harder."

Sherwood Schwartz, creator and producer of the show in conjunction with United Artists Television has a wealth of anecdotes he isn't in the least bit loath to relate:

"The pilot was pre-tested three separate times before different audiences and these people-on-the-street liked it. They couldn't all be wrong. I had the conviction it would be a hit.

"How? It's my business to know what people want. I've been associated with four shows in the past 15 years which were never out of the Top Ten in ratings—Joan Davis, Red Skelton, My Favorite Martian—and Gilligan's.

"And how do I know what people want? I'm commercial. I laugh at what people OUT of our business laugh at. I just did a pilot called 'It's About Time' which will also be on CBS this fall, and after seeing it 30 times, I still laugh."

No jaded, Hollywood stereotype producer, he. Schwartz, referred to recently by writer Bill Davidson as resembling the Kukla of Kukla, Fran and Ollie, has all manner of plans for his shipwrecked folk.

"I hoped from the outset that the show would go for four years with them on the island. But I've had a projected escape in the back of my mind.

"Should they get rescued, or should the ratings go down, or should we feel we're getting into a rut—then I'd turn the island into a resort hotel.

"Jim Backus would operate it, because he's the rich man with know-how. Gilligan and the skipper would operate the boat to bring in the guests, and the rest of the cast would work at the hotel in various executive jobs.

"You might call it a Marina Grand Hotel, if it ever happens. I don't forsee it just yet, however," says Schwartz.

GETTING BACK to the genesis of Gilligan's three years ago, the producer recalls with hilarity pre-production discussions with various interested officials.

"I had described the format, the cast we had in mind to play the various characters, and everyone was highly enthusiastic. I concluded my little speech with: 'It will be a microcosm.'

"There was a deadly silence. And finally someone spoke up: 'I thought this was going to be a comedy show.'

"I soothed him with: It'll be a funny microcosm,' and everything was all right then." Schwartz still grins in recollection.

What now of his cast of characters who've been marooned on a stage at CBS Studio Center in the San Fernando Valley for the past two years?

In three words: they love it!

Says Bob Denver, who plays Gilligan, "It's very nice here on the island. The problems are resolved easily in 24½ minutes."

Alan Hale is a bit more expansive about the situation.

"Personally I don't want to get off the island. The show is fun to work. And this is the story of life—everyone tries to have fun at his work, and we do.

"Sure it's escapism. But look at the highways on Friday nights. Everyone tries to get out of town. We escape on this show. It's studied nonsense. We play it straight down the line, and it comes off funny."

Jim Backus and Natalie Schaefer, as the rich Howells, love their island, too, and haven't the slightest desire to set sail away from it.

TINA LOUISE recently took advertisements in the Hollywood trade papers to laud a dramatic guest appearance she did on another program, but says firmly: "Of course I want to do comedy, on this show. I love it."

Dawn Wells proclaims, "If I'm going to be marooned on a desert island, this is the place to be. Who wants to escape? Not I!"

And finally, Russell Johnson, the professor of the group, expresses himself as in complete accord with all their sentiments.

Getting back to Schwartz, who is regarded by all on board as the father-knows-best of the production company:

"We left the island once this past season with a mad scientist, and they couldn't wait to get back. Probably there are psychological overtones lurking in all our characters, but we aren't delving into that.

"Next season? We'll probably have one guest star in every six shows or there-abouts, as we've been doing. It's curious, you know—guests can come to the island and leave, but the regulars can't. We don't delve into that either.

"Right now we have plans for Gilligan to play a dual role, that of a spy from an unnamed foreign power who think our people are a task force inhabiting the island. So Gilligan plays the spy, dressed as he always is, and we'll use the same split-screen technique to show him in both characters as is done on the Patty Duke show.

"In another episode we'll do a spoof on Dracula, where Gilligan is bitten by a bat in a cave and is convinced he's going to become a vampire.

"He'll do a Charly's Aunt take-off disguised as a woman who is kidnapped by a native chief. And we're going to have a Hollywood producer discover the island. He'll not resemble me in the slightest," says Schwartz.

"I NEVER worry about where story ideas will come from on our show," he continues. "Originally with this show, I made use of the fish-out-of-water circumstances. I don't like plain living room comedy with a mother, father and three kids. So I try fresh approaches. This was the first total outdoor comedy. And I believe in uniforms for people—this is why the skipper and Gilligan wear them.

I feel that a show must have its own unique look and sound. The most important thing in television is instant identification. The audience must be able to tell what the show is the minute they flip the dial. Then the people can decide if they like it, and that part is up to me."

Of most immediate concern to Schwartz at this point of his career is another time change for the show.

"It's the first time in the history if television that a show has been changed every season. We started on Saturdays, this past year were moved to Thursdays, and next fall we go to Mondays. Fortunately, the audiences have found us each time, but it's pretty difficult to haul 20 million people from night to night."

The entire production company is pleased that they will lead off CBS' Monday night line-up of comedy shows.

"We'll get a younger group of children watching at the proposed 7:30 p.m. time," Schwartz feels, "but this has never been designed as a kiddie show. You must appeal to a broad spectrum of the population.

"HERE WE HAVE a grab-bag. The kids like Gilligan and the skipper. The sophisticates understand Jim and Natalie. And the girl-watchers go for Tina and Dawn. Their female counterparts write fan letters to the professor, and thus we try to be all things to all people.

"And succeeding very nicely so far, thanks much," says Sherwood Schwartz.

ROLLING INTO A THIRD SEASON, skipper Alan Hale and Bob (Gilligan himself) Denver, do a little one-wheel navigation to celebrate continuance of the CBS show.

SO — WHO WANTS TO GET OFF THE ISLAND? Here is the CBS Gilligan's Island crew—all set for a third season. From the Left: Russell Johnson, Dawn Wells, Bob Denver, Tina Louise, Jim Backus, Natalie Schaefer, Alan Hale.

Bellamy May Return

Ralph Bellamy, who is co-starring with Suzanne Pleshette in Cloudbusters, a movie being made for NBC-TV, says he is open minded about returning to television as a series star. Obviously, he would come back in the right vehicle.

Scriptless Film Is Newly's Idea

BY DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREEWAY — Anthony Newley wants to direct a movie and he has a wild idea—an improvisational film, with the actors only having the basic plot line but no script . . . There may be at least one cast change in Pitticoat Junction this year—Gunilla Hutton may be out as Billie Jo. . . . Dennis Day is the tycoon type—he's on the board of directors of eight large corporations. . .Most of the quickie gag books prompted by television shows leave me luke-cold but I think Don Adams' "Would You Believe? is very funny. . . .Diane Baker is off for a vacation in Greece, a trip she's been planning for several years. . .George Pal is getting ready to reissue his "tom thumb" feature — it's been seven years and a new generation of chicken is ready for it.

Sid Caesar had to lose 20 pounds for his role in Bill Castle's ghostly comedy, "The Spirit Is Willing." He came down from 224 to 205, using his own special M.O.—Modus Overweight. He just cuts down on the amount of food he eats.

It's pretty hard," he says "to leave most of a fine filet or just to sample a tasty dessert. But you get used to it; eating too much is a habit you can overcome.

"I feel great now. And I'm going to stay at this weight if I can. the only trouble is I'm hungry all the time."

Even before his celebrated front-page dates with Lynda Johnson, George Hamilton was on his way to the top. He says it was a tough fight.

"Three years ago," he says, "a producer told me I'd gone as far as I could go as a juvenile lead, that I wouldn't work for three years. I was scared. So I decided I had to do other things to tide me over that period.

"I did a lot of television. I did summer stock. I went to Europe and did some movies there. And you know what, my income tripled in those years. Besides, now I'm recognized as a leading man, not a juvenile."

TV Scout Reports on This and That

Fred MacMurray films all of his scenes for an entire My Three Sons season over a period of three months.

It's a little difficult, moodwise," Don Grady told TV Scout. Don, who plays Robbie, said, "In our scenes with Fred we photograph long shots and his closeups. Weeks later our closeups are filmed and instead of Fred being offstage for us to talk to, we find ourselves talking to a blank wall. But we don't mind because Fred is such anice fellow. He always apologizes when he returns to work, asking 'Have you missed me a little?'"

Several new villains will show up on Batman next season. One is a woman named Ma Parker, who has her three sons in the gang. (One of them should be named Con, short for Confess.) Anyway, producer Bill Dozier told TV Scout it looks as if Tallulah Bankhead will sign for the role.

* * *

Producer Gene Roddenberry talked to TV Scout about his new series, Star Trek, set for NBC-TV this fall.

"This is one of the first attempts to translate science fiction literature into television. We have people stories. Too many series put gadgets first and people second. We put people first."

Then he added, "Star Trek is a Wagon Train Through the Stars."

Lee Marvin's status as an Oscar winner is helping his old TV series, M Squad. The show has recently replaced an old movie series in Minneapolis.

Neil Hamilton, who plays Commissioner Gordon on Batman, just celebrated his 48th year in show business. He is 67 years old.

Lucille Ball, in London filming a CBS-TV special for next season, has discovered (as Professor Higgins keeps saying in "My Fair Lady") that the English must learn to speak English.

After lunch, she said to her waiter, "I'll have tea." Before he went and got it, the waiter patiently explained to the colonial that to the English, an order for tea doesn't mean a drink, but rather an afternoon meal, with watercress sandwiches and everything. Lucy has now learned that if all you want is a drink of tea, you ask for a pot of tea.

Jack Kelly, remembered as one of the Maverick brothers, has been signed for a guest role in an episode of Daktari.

* * *

Richard Crenna is disenchanted with TV, since the cancellation of his critically acclaimed series, Slattery's People. "I intend to be active again in TV," he told TV Scout. "But not as an actor if I can help it."

* * *

Janet Ward, who has joined CBS-TV's Love of Life series, is also busy on Broadway playing Alan King's wife in The Impossible Years. She has succeeded Marian Brash as Mrs. Draper, because Marion has left for California and motion picture work.

8.30-9 (CBS)—The Lucy Show involves Lucille Ball in a romance with Clint Walker. (COLOR) Repeat.

10-11 (ABC) — The Avengers' sleuths are lead to a strange hotel after the disappearance of a number of scientists in "Room Without a View."

Pyne Show Debut July 4

HOLLYWOOD — "The show," Joe Pyne said, "will let me be myself. There will be a certain amount of contestant needling and I can be funny. As funny as Groucho Marx maybe, although he may not like the idea of my saying this."

The show Joe Pyne was talking about is Showdown, a Monday-to-Friday question and answer game debuting on NBC-TV in color at 10:30 a. m. on July 4.

There are other TV game shows in the same mold as Showdown. But with Joe Pyne as host —well, anything can happen. He's the most controversial figure in the world of radio and TV talk shows since Jack Paar was at his peak.

Tall, sandy-haired Joe admits: "I've been called everything in the book—boorish, blunt, brash, rude, raucous, ranting, flippant, immoderate, tasteless—you name it. But I can take it."

Joe Pyne is the fellow who brought a small revolver to the studio of his Los Angeles TV talk show during the height of the race riots in Watts last August.

He brandished the revolver, some people said, urging private citizens in his audience to arm themselves for the protection of home and family. He was accused, in print, of considerable bad taste and of possibly inciting further rioting and bloodshed. The incident was all the way to the FCC but Joe and his local TV station apparently were cleared because nothing came of the complaints to the FCC.

JOE PYNE

"The real facts," he says, "are that I didn't brandish the revolver, which wasn't even loaded. I never took it out of its holster. But I admit I was concerned about the safety of my family and that I did buy extra clips for the revolver. It was all pretty ironic because on the same show that night I had a Negro disc jockey as a guest and he admitted he was carrying a revolver, too. Right after the show the police picked him up. I went to the station with them and the revolver he had talked about on the air turned out to be a cap pistol.

"When the police asked him why he was carrying a cap pistol, he told them. 'It's a fake gun because I sell fake jewelry as a sideline and I need personal protection!"

Joe called his talk shows "fist-in-the-mouth—my guests know they're going to be in a fight."

There was still another incident involving Joe when he was on radio in Canada. He sponsored a peace group which passed out literature urging the defection of a group of Russian diplomats visiting Canada at the time.

"The Royal Mounted Police came and wanted to deport me," Joe recalls, "but nothing happened."

TV Questions & Answers

BEWITCHING ACTRESS — Will Bewitched show any reruns this summer featuring the late and gifted Alice Pearce? Will George Tobias, who played her husband, be back next season?—J. M. Kurtz, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Re-runs of the ABC-TV comedy are now featuring Miss Pearce. Her role as Gladys Kravitz will be taken over in the fall by Sandra Gould, veteran comedienne who once played Miss Duffy on radio's Duffy's Tavern. Tobias will be back as her husband, Abner.

LIVELY LIFE—What was the song Claudine Longet sang in "The Sadness of a Happy Time" on Run for Your Life?—J. S., Reading, Pa.

The song was "Meditations." It's been recorded by Claudine's husband, Andy Williams for his album, "Shadow of Your Smile," and by Perry Como for his album, "Lightly Latin." The episode was drawn from a story by Patrick Kennedy; the teleplay was by John W. Block. Write NBC-TV, Burbank, Calif., for more information on the script.

KILLING ERROR — Recently you wrote that next season there will be an episode in which the one-armed man finds Kimble on The Fugitive and kills him. Will this be the end of the series?—Mrs. James B. Gains, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Not quite. The story will have the one-armed man attempt to kill Kimble. The hero of a TV series always survives.

EARLY PARADERS — Who were the leading male singers on the TV early Hit Parade shows—Elsie Crandell, Peoria, Ill.

Snooky Lanson was on from start to finish. Others were Russell Arms and Jeff Clark.

BUSY ACTOR—Peter Ustinov gave an outstanding performance in the film, "Billy Budd" recently on television. Has he made other films?—Cathy A. Smith, Hialeah, Fla.

The 45-year-old London-born actor has been in many films since he made his screen debut in "Mein Kampf, My Crimes" in 1941. In 1960 he won an Oscar as the best supporting actor for "Spartacus." Besides acting in "Billy Budd," he also directed it. His most recent effort is "Lady L." starring Sophia Loren. Ustinov wrote and directed the film in which he has a small role.

ANTI-ILLYA — How could a homely, ugly little thing like David McCallum be an actor? Isn't he Russian or something? Print only my initials. I'm surrounded by McCallumaniacs!—L.D.T., Madison, Wis.

Whatever you think of the actor, please get your facts straight. McCallum is Scottish, a native of Glasgow. His success as Illya, the agent with the Russian accent on The Man From U.N.C.L.E., came after long years years in British theater where he began as an electrician when he was 14.

Inflation Dims Studio Lights

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) Mervyn Leroy has just wasted seven months, and the reasons behind it are indicative of Hollywood's problems today.

Leroy is one of Hollywood's all-time great directors. Over the years, he has directed 75 pictures and most of them were good. But he's finding it harder and harder, each year, to put a property before the camera.

"I just spent seven months," he says, "working on a picture and I had to junk it. Costs have just gone up so high it's difficult to find anything you can film."

As an experiment, Leroy asked a Hollywood budget expert to estimate how much it would cost him to make "I Was a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" today. When Leroy made it originally, the cost was $340,000. Today it would cost $2.1 million.

So Leroy is back where he started, seven months ago, looking for a good property he can film at a moderate cost.

"I stay up half the night reading," he says. "I read books, galleys, plays, original screen plays, anything. But it gets harder all the time to find new and fresh material."

His last was "Moment to Moment" which is doing much better in Europe than it is here. There were several reasons it was not a smash here.

"I know what went wrong," he says. "For one thing, I had the wrong boy in the lead. Another thing is they're selling it wrong here. But the main reason is it's a love story, and American kids don't want to see an old-fashioned love story now.

"Why, in Hollywood High last year there were 19 babies born to girl students. Most 15-year-olds think they're too sophisticated to see a love story."

Leroy says that two of his all-time triumphs — "Random Harvest" and "Waterloo Bridge" —would probably be unsuccessful today, just because they are love stories.

THE PSYCHIC STARS: Tommy Steele

At 15 England's brilliant young song-and-dance-and-act man was in the British navy. He became sick at sea and was flown home, to a London hospital. There, his ailment was diagonized as spinal meningitis.

His parents were summoned and the doctors told them their son wouldn't last the night. In the morning Tommy was still alive, but he was paralyzed from the waist down.

His mother and father went home to rest. Tommy lay there, moving only his arms and his head still on the edge of death. Suddenly he heard the sound of child laughing, and then a bright colored rubber ball sailed over the curtains and landed on his bed. He was able to reach it and he threw it back, over the curtains.

Back came the ball, this time a little further away. He had to stretch to retrieve it. The process was repeated many times. Tommy never saw the child, only heard his happy laughter. The ball landed further and further away from him. Eventually, he had to get out of bed and walk a few steps to get it.

When his parents returned a few hours later, Tommy Steele was completely recovered. He told his parents about the child. They drew back the curtains and there was no child — he was in a ward full of men.

"It must have been Rodney," Tommy's father said. Rodney was Tommy's younger brother, who had died a few years before at the age of three. "When we buried him, we put in his hands his favorite toy — the rubber ball you gave him."

Vickki Feels Song Coming On

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — Vikki Carr, idol of record buffs, bistro regulars and TV fans, hummed the melody of "Adestes Fideles" over the salad she had ordered for lunch, as she recalled her life in musical cues.

"That was the first one," she said. "I was four. There was a Christmas program at our church and I still remember the nuns saying, 'Please, Florencia, you sing with your mouth pear-shaped.'"

Her name then was Florencia Cardona of Rosemead, Calif., where she was born of Mexican-American heritage. She has come a long way from Rosemead, a suburb of Lose Angeles, to become a favored guest of TV variety shows such as The John Gary Show, which began on CBS-TV on June 22.

The musical cues are not only milestones but chapters in her life. She remembered them well, from "Adeste" to "Hello, Dolly" which she sang in Spanish to U. S. troops in Viet Nam on her recent trip there with Danny Kaye.

She remembered "Because of You."

"That was when I was in the sixth grade, when I blasted out my songs. I had to learn how to control myself."

She remembered "Secret Love."

"I was in high school and I was in love with a boy only he didn't know it. I sang with a high school band and I sang 'Secret Love' for him only."

She remembered "Thou Swell."

"I sang that in a high school play and I mugged it up like Jerry Lewis."

She remembered "Poor Butterfly."

"It was my grandfather's favorite song. He couldn't speak English and he died without ever seeing me perform as a professional."

She remembered "He's a Rebel," a rock 'n' roll number which brought her fame on a tour of Australia.

She remembered "San Francisco." It was in her first album which became a coast to coast hit and zoomed her into the big time.

She laughed about "Besame."

"That was in the Spanish period of my career, before I changed my name to Vikki Carr. I was known as Carlita then."

She remembered "No Other Love" with mixed emotions of happiness and sadness.

It is the favorite song of her husband (Dann Moss) the title of which he had inscribed on a bracelet she wears.

VIKKI CARR

They had been married only two weeks when Vikki went to Viet Nam with Danny Kaye to entertain the troops. She sang "No Other Love" to them but the tears were in HER eyes.

"Imagine," she said, spending your honeymoon in Viet Name without your husband. But I HAD to go and Dann didn't really mind."

Tina Louise; Beautiful People Can Be Ugly

By BILL BYERS

NEW YORK—"Do you think beautiful people will come back into vogue?" Tina Louise was asked.

The delectable castaway of CBS-TV's Gilligan's Island stared bleakly into her morning coffee.

"No," she said. "These kooky-faced people seemingly are here to stay and fortunately I dont have to be beautiful all the time."

The beautiful star turned her beautiful face to reveal a side of her which she doesn't think is so beautiful.

"If I'm photographed from this angle, I can be ugly, too," she said modestly.

The trouble, she later confessed, is that most producers haven't discovered the angle (the left side of her face) and keep thinking of her as beautiful. Meanwhile, actresses with more prominent bad angles are cashing in, a la Barbra Streisand.

"But it's not only beautiful women who are in trouble these days, so are beautiful men. Hollywood and London prefer strange-looking guys," Tina said.

One of the most beautiful men she knows is her husband, Les Crane, who was the ABC-TV bad boy on Nightlife. After he was fired last season, it was difficult or him to find employment. Only recently, he started work on a new film, "American Dream."

Tina is trying her best to be content as the beautiful Ginger on Gilligan's Island although she thinks television is "strictly for the sponsor's."

"Once you realize you are there just to sell the product it's not so bad," she said. "You just grind it out and go on with it."

Her desire is to do more film work, especially meaty roles.

"I've done so much comedy lately I'd like to play something real—something closer to the modern American woman," she says.

And for such roles Tina is willing to hide her beautiful side.

Guess Who?

TV Scout would give you three guesses as to the identity of the man who introduced youthful Bob Hope to youthful Dolores Reade, the young dancer who became Mrs. Hope. But TV Scout figures it would take many more than three guesses.

Anyway, a young song and dance man named George Murphy performed the introduction. He is now, of course, Senator George Murphy.

What's Life Without Motorcycles?

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Stuart Whitman drove up on his motorcycle, a form of transportation which, he says, is a great way to get rid of frustrations.

"And I'm riddled with frustrations," he said.

You might wonder why someone who is seemingly the darling of the fates—he's tall, dark, handsome, talented and successful—would need to motorcycle away frustrations. But, besides being tall, dark, handsome, talented and successful, he's also divorced and that can be a nuisance.

Stu and Pat have four children. Stu gets them on weekends. But he supports them, of course, all week long. Plus alimony.

"It's a tough nut to carry," he says. "It costs me $2,600 a month. If she remarries, that will be cut in half. But meanwhile it's expensive."

He has to keep living himself. He tries to economize, but he must keep up some kind of front. He maintains bachelor quarters in what he calls "a shack," but it isn't quite as dilapidated as that word connotes. Furthermore, it's built on Whitman's major investment, 155 acres of choice property in fashionable Benedict Canyon.

That hunk of real estate is costly to hang on to—taxes are high—so, all in all, Whitman needs to make a lot of money to break even. When he's working, he does. When he isn't, he doesn't.

"I go into debt between pictures," he says, "and I've waited as long as eight months for a good picture to come along. I just finished making 'An American Dream' at Warners, and that got me even. But now I'm going back in hock again."

He says he's thinking of boarding horses on his Benedict Canyon property. He can get $60 per month per horse, and it would help.

Of course, he could make bunches of money if he did a television series, but he won't.

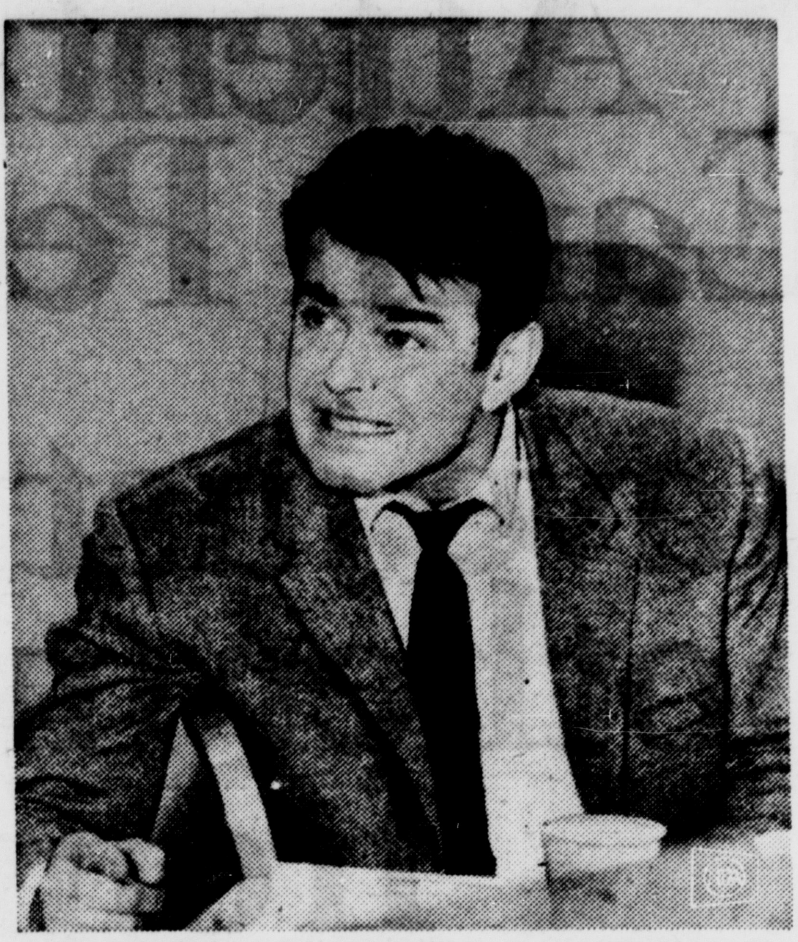

"I saw Lucille Ball a couple of days ago," Whitman says. "She said, 'Come on into TV with me and I'll make you a millionnaire.' But I can't do it. I can't compromise on quality the way you have to do. Years ago, I turned down some pretty big series—Maverick and Have Gun Will Travel. If I took a series now, it would be an admission that I've lost."

He says what he's going for is the jackpot, the big stakes, and he's not quitting the fight yet.

"I'm shooting for the top," he says. "I want to become so important that I have the right of first refusal of all top properties. I want to play opposite Liz (Taylor) and Julie Christie) and there is talk of that now. No, I'm not going to surrender now and to television."

But his financial strain has caused him to give up one thing he wanted to do. He was offere the chance to play the Heroes." the theatrical piece A. E. Hotchner has whipped up from Ernest Hemmingway's works. It is due on Broadway next season.

"I don't think I can afford it," Whitman says. "Broadway doesn't pay enough for a man with my nut to carry."

THE METHOD—Actor Stuart Whitman says his career in Hollywood has not been without frustrations. And here he makes the point.

ALLENTOWN ANTICS—Attracting attention was easy, but whether these models can sell incredulous bystanders on these jet-set fashions is another question. The designs, created by Princess Galitzine of Rome on special order, were paraded in Allentown, Pa., by a department store. The quilted-nylon, turtle-neck jumpsuit complete with space helmet, left, is for resort and beach wear. The swimsuit with peephole helmet, at right, is of orange and white stretch fabric.

"Gee, Tom, I'm all dressed and ready to go. Are you sure your leg is broken?"

Youths Are Working With U. S. Attorney

NEW YORK (AP) — The job only pays $15 a week and it's just for the summer, but there were 160 applicants for 32 openings.

One of the successful applicants was Paul A. Crotty, 25, of Buffalo, son of former Erie County Democratic Chairman Peter J. Crotty. The elder Crotty reportedly failed to get American Bar Association endorsement for a $30,000-a-year federal judgship in Buffalo.

Paul Crotty and his 31 young coworkers are "junior partners" in the U.S. attorney's office here.

Man Is Drowned, Was Father of 15

LOWVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — David J. Talbot of Lowville, a farmer and the father of 15, was drowned Friday in Crystal Lake while on an outing with his family near this Adirondack community.

The Lewis County Sheriff's Department reported that Talbot, 49, was attempting to swim from a point an eighth of a mile out in the lake to his family on the beach when he went under.

Talbot's body was recovered in about 20 feet of water 60 feet from the beach.

Postpone Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has postponed from July 12 to Oct. 4 a hearing concerning air pollution in New York City.

The federal agency announced the postponement Friday and said it had been requested by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and New York City officials.

Specifically, the hearing will concern a proposal by Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. to sell additional natural gas to the Consolidated Edison Co. as a fuel for its generating plants in the metropolitan New York area.

Proponents of the proposal say that the use of gas instead of coal at Con Ed plants would help decrease air pollution in the city.

Attention Earth People!

We have just received another message from Howard Benedict.

Howard Benedict at Cape Kennedy, standing in front of a giant missile tracking device, is wearing the splash suit required of all personnel in the launching area.

Every time something takes place or takes off from Cape Kennedy, we hear about it from Howard Benedict. And so do you.

Benedict is the chief aerospace writer for The Associated Press, and one of the chief reasons why our reports of the space program, from the first Alan Shepard flight in the Freedom 7 to the latest space feat, have been so complete and so authoritative.

In seven years, Benedict has witnessed more than 1200 countdowns and spent countless hours with every expert in the space program. He's as much up on the subject as anyone can be who hasn't been up in space.

Howard Benedict, of course, is just one of the many skilled AP reporters, writers, researchers and photographers covering the field. There are dozens of them, and they're all there just to make sure that we get all the news from space. Just so we can get it all to the earth people, our readers.

Everything that's going on, goes into our newspaper. That's why you get so much out of it.
